City Wins Praise In Surprise Raid Alert

OCD RECEIVES STATE RATING OF 'VERY GOOD'

Defense Workers Report To Posts In Few Minutes, City Complies With Orders.

MIX-UP IN WARNINGS

Transmission of Signal Comes 45 Minutes Late; Complaint Heard on Sirens.

Mansfield's response to the first surprise daylight air raid alert in the city and county last night was praised today by the city's civilian defense officials and a representative of the state OCD office.

Coming at 7:10 p. m., a time when there was little activity on the streets and most of the air raid wardens and OCD workers were at home, the alert signal brought the city's civilian defense units to their posts within a few minutes, OCD Commander Jess Schwab said.

Dr. H. W. Nisonger, director of training for the state civilian defense council, was in the downtown area during the test and told city OCD officials later that the Mansfild showing was "very good."

The "all clear" signal was given at 7:45 p. m., more than an hour before dark. During the period of simulated greatest danger, all cars and pedestrians were off the streets and traffic lights were turned off.

Because it was a daylight test, it wasn't necessary to turn out lights in restaurants and other business places, although lights in many parts of the city were snapped off at the first warning from the air raid sirens. Air raid wardens advised business establishments that they could legally turn the lights on again.

There was mix-up in the transmission of the first public warning signal, and it did not come through until nearly 45 minutes after the first confidential warning to the Mansfield OCD control center had come through from Sandusky.

Lost U. S. Cruiser, Captain

The U. S. S. Helena, a light cruiser, was the only loss sustained by American naval units in the decisive victory scored against the Japs in the battle of Kula gulf. It is not known whether her commanding officer, Capt. Charles P. Cecil, shown above with the ship, was saved although Allied dispatches said many of the men aboard the ship were saved. Nine, and possibly 11, Jap warships were sunk in the battle which lasted less than three hours.

Storm Leaves 3 Dead and 3 Missing; City Escapes Damage

Heavy rain and windstorm which swept over northern Ohio yesterday leaving in its wake three persons dead and three missing and untold damage to highways, crops and war production, apparently left Mansfield and Richland county with only minor damage, according to reports today.

Several Mansfield streets in low-lying areas were flooded during the downpour but the greatest damage was done by lightning. Rainfall in Mansfield was officially recorded at .68 of an inch but some areas received more than an inch of rain.

Firemen answered two alarms from homes struck by lightning in the west side of the city about 3:15 p. m. A bolt hit the roof of the home of Harry O'Brien, 839 Maple street, tearing off shingles and splitting a rafter.

Lightning following a telephone line into the home of G. F. Smith, 568 Highland avenue, blew a hole in the ceiling of a room. No fire started at either home.

Damage to power lines cut off current to homes in eastern and northeastern sections of the city for more than four hours. Between 4 and 8 p. m. power was shut off in these sections. East Mansfield, also affected by the power shut-off, remained without current for nearly six hours during which time operations were suspended at the Farm Tool Inc. company and the city sewage plant.

County Engineer Howard C. Sword was investigating reported damage on the Little Washington road today but was unable to give an estimate of the damage yet.

In the Steubenville area, three persons were reported dead today. They are Charles Palmer, 32-year-old civilian defense volunteer, killed when he touched a high tension power line blown down during the windstorm at Steubenville; Elgy

FAVOR GENERAL

Poles Slate Sosnokowshi as New Commander, Report.

LONDON —(U.P.)— Reliable sources said today that Gen. Kazimierz Sosnokowski, former war minister in Poland, will be named commander in chief of the Polish armed forces succeeding Gen. Wladislaw Sikorski, killed in an airplane accident at Gibraltar.

Sosnokowski, 58, minister of war for a term, ending in 1927. The report that he would succeed Sikorski as commander in chief was unofficial but came from a usually reliable quarter.

Sikorski was premier of the Polish government in exile, as well as commander in chief.

PLEADS GUILTY IN BOY'S DEATH

Youth Admits First Degree Murder Accusation.

CELINA —(AP)— Seventeen-year-old Louis Hand was held without bond today after pleading guilty to a charge of first degree murder in the hammer slaying of Richad Stober, 7, of nearby New Rockford last Sunday.

The Stober boy's body was found in a barn near the farm home of his father, Rufus Stober. Ora McClellan, Greenville police chief, said Hand confessed beating the boy for "razzing" him about failing to grease a cultivating machine. Hand was a laborer on the Stober farm.

Engine Backs Into Rear of Passenger Train.

LEETSDALE, Pa.—(AP)—Thirty-seven persons were injured, most of them slightly, when a light engine backed into the rear of a local passenger train today during the latter's stop at Leetsdale station.

The accident occurred on the Pennsylvania's main line, about 12 miles northwest of Pittsburgh. Trainmen said thick black smoke from another train probably obscured the vision of the engine crew.

ALLIES SET TO QUADRUPLE AXIS OUTPUT

Nelson Says North America Already Produces Twice Foe's Munitions.

WARNS OF OPTIMISM

Declares Greatest Effort at Front and at Home Still To Come.

(By United Press)

TORONTO, Ont. — Chairman Donald M. Nelson of the War Production Board disclosed today that the Allied arms output in 1944 may be nearly four times as great as that of the Axis.

He said in a speech before the Canadian club that the Allies outproduced the Axis by almost two to one in 1942, and that in 1943 the United Nations output may "reliably" be expected to be nearly three times Axis production.

The North American continent alone, he said, is producing this year twice as much in combat munitions as the Axis.

"The trend is inexorable," he said. "It points relentlessly to the just and terrible punishment which the outraged world will visit on the Fascist aggressors."

Nelson's remarks came less than 48 hours after he had released in Washington a progress report showing a "serious" slackening in United States arms production in May, and amid indications that the June record would also be disappointing.

The report did not explain the May lag, but Nelson at a press conference in Washington before departing for Toronto blamed it on manpower problems, floods, strikes and other developments.

Nelson warned the enemy today not to "take too much comfort from the so-called sagging of the home front in the United States in recent days." At the same time, he said, he would be the last to minimize the serious effects of spasmodic strikes and riots on the war production program.

Although the trend toward

AIRING DUE

Congress To Study FCC's Rule Over Radio Broadcasting.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Regulation of radio broadcasting by the federal communications commission will get a thorough airing before congress when members return from a summer recess, Chairman Wheeler (D., Mont.) of the senate interstate commerce committee announced today.

Wheeler said he is in accord with a proposal by Senator Taft, (R.,O.) that congress—and not the FCC—write specifications for government restraints on radio.

He made it clear, however, that he did not agree fully with Taft's contention in the senate yesterday that FCC regulations point toward ultimate "destruction" of the radio networks and the limitation of their freedom of expression.

SURVEY AIRPORT SITE NEXT WEEK

CAA Engineers Report They'll Arrive Wednesday To Check on Suitable Land.

A survey to determine where Mansfield's new airport project will be located is due to get under way next Wednesday, Mayor W. J. Locke had been informed today by Civil Aeronautics authority engineers in Chicago.

CAA representives from Chicago and Columbus will arrive in the city to go over the airport expansion plans with city officials and to view proposed sites near the present airport.

The engineers are expected to designate the site they consider most suitable for Mansfield's needs and tell the city how much land will be needed so council can go ahead with plans for financing the job and obtaining necessary property.

When council gets the "go ahead" sign from the CAA, the city then must acquire enough land for the project and assure the federal agency that the airport will be properly maintained after it is built.

A tentative $600,000 allovation was made to the city more than two weeks ago to finance the construction of runways and grading and draining the project area.

Congressman J Harry McGregor indicated after the money grant was made that the entire project will amount to between $1,500 000 and $2,000,000 when it is completed.

WPB Agrees To End Secrecy in Handling Newsprint.

WASHINGTON—The war production board has decided to make public henceforth its proceedings in handling newsprint quotas Rep. Maas (R., Minn.) said this satisfied his demands that something be done to avert what he called a threat to freedom of the press.

Maas charged the WPB's printing and publishing division with favoring some publishers over others and using newsprint quota machinery for "censorship" purposes.

WPB Chief Donald M. Nelson issued a flat denial yesterday, then conferred with Maas, who said Nelson agreed to his recommendation for publishing quota cases, probably in the Federal Register daily.

Richland County Industrial Union council today asked that all places of business, including banks, doctors, dentists, remain open one night each week in order to abolish lost time in war industries, created because workers have to take time off to attend to their personal business affairs and to do their shopping during the day.

The council, which represents CIO workers in the city, made the request to V. H. Lodde, secretary of the Retail Merchants association. The request was submitted by William Kozma, council secretary.

The council has also requested that the election board remain open one night each week to enable war workers to register.

Yanks Land on Two Sides of Big Jap Base

Toll of Enemy Ships Sunk In Kula Gulf Battle Grows to Nine, Possibly 11; Many Rescued In Sinking of Helena, Sole U. S. Loss.

(By International News Service)

UNITED NATIONS HEADQUARTERS, Australia—The Japanese air base at Munda, on New Georgia island in the Solomons, appeared perilously near collapse today following the landing of American ground forces at a beachhead only six miles distant.

This Yank force went ashore at Sanana, six miles east of Munda, while other American units landed to the north, four miles east of Bairoko harbor, just prior to the start of the spectacular naval engagement between the Japanese and United States warships in Kula gulf.

The communique from headquarters of Gen. Douglas MacArthur disclosing the new landings on New Georgia island revealed that nine and possibly 11 Japanese cruisers and destroyers were sunk in the Kula battle which cost the United States the 9,700-ton cruiser Helena.

The fight between the American and Jap battle wagons developed as the Japs sought to reinforce their threatened Munda garrison in the face of the surprise American landings.

Yank troops who went ashore at Sanana established their beachhead after crossing from near-by Rendova island where American big guns have been hurling shells across five miles of water into the Munda base

The landing north of Munda was effected at Rich anchorage, four miles northeast of Bairoko harbor which is entered from Kula gulf.

The advances by the Americans in the Solomons and combined American and Australian units in New Guinea against Japan's island arc north of Australia were accompanied by the most devastating series of aerial assaults yet loosed in the south and southwest Pacific.

Defeat of the Jap naval units in Kula gulf was a major victory in itself, although it was not immediately disclosed whether the U. S. naval action had prevented the Japs from putting ashore some reinforcements and sorely needed supplies with which to prolong their hold on Munda.

A dispatch from Admiral William F. Halsey's headquarters in the South Pacific said that the Jap naval units were surprised and trapped as they were coming out of the passage between Kolombangara island and New Georgia where they apparently were trying to reinforce and supply their troops.

Gen. MacArthur's communique said that further details on the Kula gulf naval engagement indicate the Jap naval force was "decisively defeated with the loss of at least nine warships."

The smashing of the enemy vessels was accomplished in an astoundingly short time. The initial engagement involved four or five Jap destroyers which were struck with smashing broadsides which destroyed or set fire to the entire group within five minutes. Three and possibly four light cruisers then were taken under fire and all either were sunk or damaged within 15 minutes. One of the latter was beached.

Later, said the communique, during the rescue of survivors from the U. S. S. Helena, American destroyers intercepted and sank two or three Jap ships attempting to escape the trap in the gulf and damaged the third.

The northern and southern extremities of large Jap-held Bougainville island to the northwest, where the Japs maintain airfields and harbors for war vessels, were pounded severely by the Allied air

CHECK: Soviets Say 30,000 Nazis Slain In Kursk Battle

(By Associated Press)

MOSCOW—Staunchly resisting Russian forces have slain 30,000 Nazis, destroyed or damaged 1,539 tanks, and shot down 649 planes during the three days of the powerful German offensive aimed at encirclement of Kursk, it was announced officially today.

Only on the southern end of the fiercely blazing 165-mile front between Orel and Belgorod, some 200 miles south of Moscow, have the Germans made any gains, the Russians asserted.

Near Belgorod, said a special communique issued this morning, the concentrated German strength has "succeeded in driving a wedge, to an insignificant distance, into our defenses," enveloping several villages at a cost of "tremendous losses."

(In a DNB broadcast a German propaganda agency, the international information bureau, asserted the Nazi forces had destroyed 400 Soviet tanks and knocked down 193 planes in the Belgorod and Orel sectors. The broadcast, recorded by the Associated Press, also said 'that deeply echeloned Russian positions had been broken.)

While the German losses in men and material were regarded here as the greatest single blow ever inflicted upon the German war machine, the Russians warned against undue optimism.

"It would be wrong for us to under-estimate the strength of the German troops conducting the big offensive," said the communique. "German forces here are great. Today it is too early to

TOUGH: Weary Marines Seize Viru After 4-Day Jungle Trek

(UP Staff Correspondent)

WITH INVASION FORCES, New Georgia, July 5.—(Delayed)—Two companies of mud-covered marines, worn by four days of forced marching, attacked the Japanese from the rear and succeeded in capturing Viru harbor before the main Allied invasion forces arrived, it was revealed today.

Enemy troops flung themselves over cliffs or ran for the brush in a vain attempt to escape as the screaming marines charged out of a jungle and up an 800-yard shell-torn ridge to rout the Japanese. When the main invasion forces arived they found Japanese bodies piled high in the village and the marines in control.

The marines who marched across New Georgia's thick jungles landed on the island June 20—10 days ahead of the invasion forces—to prepare the way for the bigger show. On June 27, they started the 30-mile march toward Viru.

Even for these tough fellows, 12 hours of daily stumbling, swimming and sleeping in the rain was hard going. They lived on chocolate rations. The last day they had practically no water. The first day out a patrol of from 36 to 40 enemy troops attacked them. A detachment was ordered to rout the enemy and 18 Japanese were killed.

Staff Sgt. Howard Biggerstaff of Cincinnati, marine combat correspondent, reported that one marine—unidentified—was shot in the knee and broke his ankle. But he kept going.

After Japanese snipers held them up one day, they reached

Report 260 Home Units Will Be Quickly Filled

Building contractors from the Mansfield-Shelby area who heard details of the county's federal housing project outlined last night in the Mansfield Chamber of Commerce rooms indicated that the county quota of 120 new homes and 140 remodeling projects would be absorbed quickly by war workers.

J. L. Wadsworth, director for the Federal Housing administration in northern Ohio, told nearly 100 contractors and members of the Mansfield civilian defense and Chamber of Commerce housing committees that the two cities stand a good chance of getting more new home units if the first quota is filled early, indicating the need for war housing in Mansfield and Shelby.

Applications for home builders' priorities must be filed with the Federal Housing administration in

City Gets Protests Against Lexington Avenue Assessment

Protests of 81 property owners on Lexington avenue against proposed assessments to help finance resurfacing and widening the street had been filed today with city council along with a number of individual complaints on street improvement assessments in other parts of the city.

Contending that truck traffic causes the most damage to Lexington avenue, the 81 property holders along the street objected to any assessments against them for the resurfacing job which has been approved by council.

Approximately $12,000 of the cost of the $74,000 South Main-Lexington avenue improvement will be charged against property owners under city council's plan. The remaining cost will be paid by the city and state.

Fred L. Herring, owner of two lots on Park avenue west and east, told council in a letter that he would refuse to pay street assessments totaling $38 charged against his properties.

In another letter to council, John B. Barr, 340 Lexington avenue, said he hoped the improvement on his street "will hold up

IN THE CAPITAL-- By Raymond Clapper

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa—(By Wireless)—What appalls me about war is the unbelievable waste of life and effort and nature's riches.

If congressional advocates of economy who have been trying to cut a few million dollars out of expenditures want to do a real job of economizing, they have the biggest opportunity any men in public life ever had. Let them turn their efforts for economy into the largest field of all for saving money, material, human labor and life. Let them start the greatest economy campaign of all time in congress—an economy drive to prevent future war.

Clapper

That is the challenge to this generation of public men—to see to it that the power and prestige of the United States is used to insure humanity against another such war as this one. No effort in public life will bear such rewards for all peoples, if successful, as an effort to adjust differences between nations by some more economical means than total war.

The cost of war, even in the restricted sense in which I have been seeing it, is appalling to me. I hear that congress has appropriated the incredible sum of 100 billion dollars for next year—which is far more than the total income of the whole American people in the best years before the war. We spent some 70 billion dollars on war in the last fiscal year.

But the dollar cost is only part of it. Think of the exhausted resources, irreplaceable natural wealth which all nations are pouring into the conflict, useful careers interrupted for millions of men, loss of health and life for thousands of them.

Traveling around Britain and here in North Africa, I have seen acres of ammunition dumps, sometimes driving for miles along roads lined with piles of big shells, bombs, landmines, stacks of metal boxes filled with machine gun ammunition. I have seen acres of trucks, jeeps and other vehicles, warehouses packed with all kinds of merchandise.

Nobody should think I am suggesting that we be niggardly in outfitting and equipping our men. That is not the point at all. The point is that to fight modern war the whole of civilization must consecrate itself to the task of mass slaughter and mass destruction. Nor am I suggesting this war was unnecessary. It obviously was inescapable after international anarchy was permitted to continue and aggressors were allowed to grow strong enough to resort to force without being confronted with an effective opposition.

Just as a minor operation in time may prevent a major one, so the use of minor force in time might have prevented this war. Regardless of what might have been we now have a new opportunity coming along. When we see millions of American men committed to throwing everything including their lives into war we are showing callous indifference not to begin now doing everything possible to prepare the way for the effective restraint of future aggression.

If it is possible to organize a vast war machine and wage successful war on the modern scale then it also must be possible to organize a machine for preventing war.

Those are thoughts that go through my mind time and again as I see convoy after convoy of army trucks, or see jeeps bouncing down the dusty roads, or see ships in a harbor and planes covering an airfield or a street full of men marching in desert tan uniforms.

FAIR ENOUGH-- By Westbrook Pegler

NEW YORK—I doubt that any American is less prejudiced than I am against his fellow-citizen for reasons of religion or race but I doubt also that compulsion is the way to put down prejudice and have a feeling that this method will aggravate rather than ameliorate the problem. When we speak of this prejudice nowadays we mean in the case of religion, the Jews, and when we speak of race, we mean the Negroes almost exclusively, although in the Southwest there is a Mexican problem.

Pegler

The Mexicans, by and large, keep to themselves but not necessarily because the Anglo-Saxon, or pink, American segregates them. They have traditions, language and customs of their own and run together instinctively. Time was when religious prejudice was directed against the Catholics and particularly the Irish Catholics but that feeling is either dead or dormant now and some Catholics, one priest notoriously, have so far forgotten the pain and resentment which they or their immediate forebears suffered under religious prejudice that they indulge in prejudice themselves especially against Jews.

My wariness against compulsion arises from the knowledge that if people are forced to associate with others against their will they are more likely to be ruffled and angry than tolerant. I have in mind, also, the experience of the employer who was told that he must not fire a worker if that worker was aggressive in organizing or running a collective bargaining agency. Employers are becoming more reasonable now and so are some of the wiser union leaders and the worst may be over, but we passed through a long period in which unworthy individuals were not only permitted but openly encouraged by the labor relations board to make themselves as troublesome and disruptive as they could so that they could not be fired for legitimate reasons such as inefficiency and inattention to their work.

I have in mind two individuals, both hostile to the company and both zealous promoters of a strike which, incidentally, never came off, which would have damaged the company grievously and helped a rival firm, and, of course, would have injured a great many other workers in the same shop through physical strife in the streets and loss of pay.

Both men were tolerably good at their jobs, although not star performers, and both delighted to harass and heckle not only the executives but all other workers, who hated them personally, for their persistent nastiness even in most casual contacts at work. Yet the employer could not fire them outright or even transfer them to other duties in which their conduct would have been less painful for that would have been coercion. In the end, one man's job was simply abolished and the other, tiring of the game, quit to take a better job elsewhere.

As I understand matters now, we are attempting to extend this same opportunity to make trouble into two more large areas. And by this process, an individual who is thoroughly hostile to the employer and personally offensive to his fellow-workers may invoke his religion or his race to prevent the employer from firing him or even to force the company to hire him in the first place. In this I see possibilities of great aggravation, at least as bad as those which were exploited to the discontent of the whole shop, including the management, by individuals who exerted themselves constantly to provocative union activity so that they could not be fired.

Moreover, this plan seems to me to contain the germ of Hitler's idea of proportionate employment. It will be recalled, that Hitler said that there were just so many Jews in Germany and decreed that the number of Jews practicing medicine and law and studying in the colleges should be in ratio. It happened that the Jews of Germany had produced a disproportionate number of doctors and lawyers and, on a basis of proportion, had more than their share of students. But this had developed in fair competition on a test of ability.

If we accept the temptation to adopt any such test of opportunity, would we not then freeze those ratios in employment? And, in that case, wouldn't it follow that we would limit the number of groups in certain lines at first and, later, in all lines so that none would enjoy an unfair advantage? And, worst of all, wouldn't we establish religion and race as the basis of eligibility for employment and even for the professions and thus defeat the very purpose for which all compulsory antidiscrimination devices are proposed?

If we do adopt such qualifications to increase opportunities up to par it stands to reason that, in consistency, we must limit them to par and thus adopt religion and race as basic qualifications.

ON BROADWAY-- By Dorothy Kilgallen

The Film Folk and the Fighters.

WITH practically everybody in Hollywood now coming in close contact with the armed forces through canteen work or USO camp show tours, it's natural that many of the new anecdotes about famed film folk have a GI flavor to them. These tales make the rounds of the army posts, and eventually find their way to Broadway, brought there by an entertainer or a doughboy on furlough, or a star who likes to tell one on himself.

Kilgallen

We've just caught up with the one about John Garfield, who hit Camp Croft with a camp show just after "Air Force," his new picture, had played at one of the post theaters.

The afternoon following the show Garfield and the rest of the cast were guests at one of the mess halls and the soldiers—all recruits just finishing their basic infantry training—questioned the point that a man could actually shoot a machine gun from the hip the way Garfield does in "Air Force."

While the argument raged, one of the boys went to the gun room and borrowed a 30 caliber machine gun and a load of blank ammunition. He brought it back to the mess hall. "Never mind the talk, Bud," he said. "Let's try it. Personally I don't think it can be done."

Garfield picked up the 65-pound weapon and waved it back and forth for about two minutes, just the way he did in the picture.

"You can quit now, Mr. Garfield," the argumentative soldier grinned. "We knew it could be done—but we wanted to get some pictures of you holding the gun for our company paper, and we were afraid you'd say no if we came right out and asked. So—we sneaked some while you were proving you were right."

Jean Arthur, who is naturally extremely reticent off-screen, toured the New York area with one of the camp shows. And although she hates interviews with newspapermen, she agreed to meet with several soldier reporters from camp papers, before one of the performances.

The interview started off coldly, because of her discomfort when talking to anyone for publication, and one of the lads was sympathetically moved to put her at her ease.

"Honey," he said, "I won't be in this army forever, and you're cute. What's your phone number?"

The interview warmed up considerably after that.

WASHINGTON— (U.P.) — House and senate conferees today failed to argee on anti-rollback subsidy legislation and sent the issue back to the senate for another vote.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — A growing give-and-take attitude between house and senate battling over appropriations spread today to the hotly-debated proposal which would invest the lawmakers with virtual hiring and firing power over war agency employes in the higher wage brackets.

As this bill passed the senate it would require confirmation of personnel paid $4,500 a year or more. President Roosevelt called the legislation a "tragic mistake" and the house took a decided stand against it on several occasions.

Anxious though to clear the decks and quit for the summer, the legislators started a movement to compromise the differences, retaining the principle expounded by Senator McKellar (D., Tenn.).

Rep. Taber (R., Ky.), who fought the original plan, drew up an amendment to the $2,911,697,224 war agencies' appropriation. His idea would require confirmation of only newly-hired war agency workers earning $5,500 a year or more. Those on the payroll before July 1 would be left undisturbed. Those hired since then and until Nov. 1 would keep their jobs but their names would be submitted, along with any additional appointments, to the senate for confirmation henceforth.

Acceptance of the compromise by the two houses would send the big appropriations measure to the White House.

Senate conferees gave in to house pressure in signing a report designed to clear the way for passage of the $253,000,000 "catch-all" second deficiency appropriations bill.

The report struck out a senate amendment designed to revive the federal crop insurance corporation with its insurance program on wheat and cotton crops, and an $8,000,000 appropriation to finance completion of construction of airports in 29 cities left partly-finished when the works projects administration folded up.

RELIEF LOAD'S 'BELOW BOTTOM'

War Boom Cuts Number of Ohio Cases Under Estimated Irreducible Minimum.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS—The war boom has cut Ohio's relief rolls and expenditures below what was believed to be the "irreducible minimum," State Welfare Director Herbert R. Mooney reported today.

Commenting on a report of relief activities covering the first half of 1943 in Ohio, Mooney asserted:

"Wartime employment has brought the relief rolls throughout the state far below what officials previously said would be the irreducible minimum for the number of cases receiving assistance."

He said the state's case load average for the first six months of the year was 19,038, a reduction of 52 per cent as compared with the corresponding 1942 period. The current record was 71 per cent below the average case load of 66,000 for the first half of 1941, he added.

The welfare director said estimates for the first half of the year included incomplete figures for June, but added that early reports indicated the case load for last month would drop to a new 10-year low of approximately 15,400, representing an approximate expenditure of $540,000, another new low.

Mooney estimated the state's relief bill for the first half of the year would total $3,779,140, a drop of 42.6 per cent below the $6,582,604 spent during the corresponding period last year.

Richards says all he did was contribute some books and the actual work in organizing the drive and collecting contributions was done by Pat Downs and his committee.

When the electrical storm struck Mansfield yesterday afternoon, firemen at Central station were expecting calls to homes struck by lightning and they weren't disappointed. The first call, to a Maple street home, didn't come, however, until the storm was nearly over. Another followed in a few minutes, taking all the equipment from the station. The firemen, who have to be pretty good judges of storms, said the lightning damage probably would have been much greater had the clouds been nearer the earth. As it was, they were high and most of the electricity was discharged harmlessly in the air.

U. S. PRODUCING SUPER-SECRETS

They're Fighter Planes About Which Officials Will Reveal No Details.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — New super-secret fighter planes designed to meet up-to-the-minute combat conditions have started rolling off the assembly lines to take their place in the stepped-up aerial offensive of the Allies.

Disclosure that new fighter types are in production was made by Charles E. Wilson, executive vice president of the war production board, (WPB), who declined, for security reasons, to reveal any details whatever.

Asked at a press conference late yesterday whether the new sky battlers were entirely new jobs or modifications of existing ones, Wilson replied with a laconic "both."

WPB Chairman Donald M. Nelson said it was these changes in types, necessitated by combat experience, that presented the greatest single obstacle to greater volume production.

"There are lots of changes," Nelson said. "When changes come they upset the dollar volume."

Wilson expressed confidence the new fighters would prove effective in battle "or we wouldn't be producing them."

When all present production facilities reach their ultimate maximum, Wilson predicted this country would be able to turn out "in excess of 10,000 planes monthly." This peak will not be reached until some time in 1944. (Plane production in May exceeded 7,000, the highest so far announced).

U. S. EXPECTED TO INTERVENE IN UTAH STRIKE

125 Trainmen Walk Out, Tying Up Third of Nation's Copper Output.

(By International News Service)

MAGNA, Utah — The federal government today was expected to intervene in a walkout of members of the Order of Railway Conductors which has tied up production of nearly one-third of the nation's war-vital copper supply.

"Federal officials will break the checkmate today," it was predicted by M. H. Barney, of San Francisco, vice president of the ORC.

Barney's statement followed an informal meeting of 63 ORC members in Magna, center of the one-day-old walkout of 125 conductors, brakemen and yardmen of the Bingham and Garfield railway, a subsidiary of the Utah Copper company.

The workers reiterated their previous statement that "we haven't gone out on strike—we are more than willing to work for the B and G railway; we have only refused to work for the Utah Copper company."

More Outlaw Strikes Cripple Coal Fields

PITTSBURGH —(INS)— Fresh outlaw strikes cropped up in southwestern Pennsylvania's soft coal fields today. Insurgent miners, protesting the return of their colleagues without a formal contract, halted the flow of coal from nine pits and forced at least 10,000 men into idleness.

Further spread of the latest rebellion in the turbulent Brownsville-California district, which was touched off by a Tuesday night meeting at Brownsville during which the recalcitrant coal diggers voted to do "some organized picketing," was feared by producers and UMW officials alike.

Women pickets aided their menfolk in closing the mines, with taunts of "scab" at those who turned out for their regular shifts.

Hardest hit by the latest wave of strikes was Jones and Laughlin Steel corporation, with three of its four mines down again.

Government Seeks Judgment In AP Case Without Trial

ATTEMPT TO DOMINATE PRESS DENIED

Assistant Attorney General Wants Suit Settled on Documentary Evidence.

NEW YORK—(AP)—The federal government in its anti-trust suit against the Associated Press is "not seeking to control or regulate the operation of the press of the country," Charles B. Rugg, special assistant to the attorney general, said today in opening arguments seeking a summary judgment in the action.

In asking for summary judgment, the government seeks to have the case decided on documentary presentation without testimony.

Rugg said there were four facts which "have not been controverted" which, he said, were sufficient to make the taking of testimony unnecessary. Rugg listed the uncontroverted facts as:

1. The Associated Press is engaged in interstate commerce.

2. The by-laws of the Associated Press contain a provision making its news service exclusive to its members.

3. That in its 43 years of existence the AP has interpreted these by-laws so as to deny services to non-members.

4. That the AP occupies an oustanding position "in the industry of gathering and collating world news."

"No substantial or genuine issue exists as to the fact that the AP occupies a pre-eminent position in the gathering of world news," Rugg asserted.

Rugg also told the court that the contract of the Associated Press with the Canadian Press and the contract by which the AP acquired Wide World Photos, Inc., represent "a combination and conspiracy in violation of the Sherman anti-trust law.

The government, in its suit, charged the Associated Press operated as a monopoly by not making its news report available to all newspapers wishing to pay a proportionate share of the cost of operations.

The court is asked to force the Associated Press to open its news report to all papers.

KYLE PLANS TO REVISE TAXI BILL

Councilman George C. Kyle explained today that he withdrew his proposal requiring the posting of taxi rates in cabs from city council's meeting Tuesday night because the measure had not been prepared as he wanted it.

Kyle said he would have the measure revised and hoped to have it ready for council action at a special meeting Tuesday night.

He said the proposal, amending an existing ordinance, would require taxi firms to post zones and complete rates in every cab and to file information about the capacity of cabs, number of cars, and zones with the mayor when application is made for operating permits.

Books For Children

(Available at Mansfield Public Library)

Latest arrivals in the children's section of the Mansfield Public Library are two books for older boys and girls.

STRUGGLE IS OUR BROTHER, by Felsen is the story of Mikhail, a Cossack boy. Shortly after the Germans invaded his country, he and several companions formed a guerilla band to help drive the enemy from the region. When it became certain that the great Amsov Dam, pride of the country-side, would fall into German hands, Mikhail set off the charge that destroyed it. This is a stirring and realistic tale of guerilla warfare in Russia's magnificent struggle against the Nazi invaders.

TENDERFOOT AT BAR X, by Perdew, has Beth, a tenderfoot, as its heroine. It took plenty of courage for the Eastern girl to win the respect and good will of Rad and Ken, two boys accustomed to the life of a sheep range, and to lose the name of tenderfoot. Girls who read this book will be as fascinated as Beth at the exciting hunt for mountain lions and coyotes, the bustle of the lambing and shearing seasons, a forest fire that threatened the ranch, and last of all, a rodeo.

QUIZ SUSPECT

Police Seek To Link Him With $60 Forged Check.

City detectives today were questioning a suspect whose signature matched that on a $60 forged check which an overall-clad youth attempted to cash at the Sears Roebuck store.

An employe of the store became suspicious when a youth presented the check, written on the Richland Farm bureas cooperative, and called the Farm bureau offices where he learned the check had been stolen from a book in the offices. While he was telephoning, the youth who presented the check disappeared.

A suspect was taken into custody later, but detectives had been unable at noon today to obtain a confession from him although his signature was almost identical with that on the check, made payable to William Johnson

The forged check was written with the Farm bureau check writer which was found later by officers behind the firm's headquarters on East Third street.

It is now Master Sergeant John L. (Jarrin' John) Carr, and fearing that the folks back home might not believe this glad tidings, the former long-clouting N-J golfer sends me a copy of the order promoting him from Technical Sergeant.

"This order looks good as gold to me," declares Jarrin' John, indicating he isn't so much concerned with what people think as he is in the increase of shekels coming his way.

And by John's letter, accompanying the order of promotion, I get the idea a few shekels come in handy down Camp Mackall way in North Carolina—if only to quench a guy's thirst now and then.

"Only had a couple drinks in the last year or so," reports M. Sgt. Carr. "A guy would have to be pretty well heeled to do any amount of drinking around here. If he could get a drink, that is."

John should be informed that the stuff is becoming hard to get back here at home too, but it's still possible to pry a bottle loose from the state of Ohio if a guy happens to know his congressman—and has the proper ration book. This may or may not come under the head of sport. But they tell me it's fun.

"The new camp isn't so bad," says John. "A lot of sand, some heat, a few barracks and you have Camp Mackall. Lousy old North Carolina."

Still rated as a bridegroom, John gives a glowing report on how to be happy though married, and in the army.

"I've been married a little over five months now," says he, "and it sure is swell. Got an A-1 wife, a steady job—and I do mean steady—and a nice place to live.

"Guess I'll call a doctor from Rockingham (that's where I live) and play some golf tomorrow, maybe. It will be my first time since I was home about 10 months ago. I will probably be more nervous than I was at the wedding, when I see the little white pill in front of me.

"Say 'Hello' to the Byrneses and Linsters and McGees and all the rest of the gang for me and my wife. Keep your nose clean, and write. So long.

Best regards,
Johnnie."

Home on 10-day leave from the Women's Army Corps, Donna Schuster already is convinced the town is dead, that all the friends she used to have are gone, or in hiding.

Donna got home Tuesday evening, went out to see her old ball club, the Provident Loan girls, practice. "It was good to see them," she reported, "but there were only three members of our old team there.

"Then my brother (he's home on leave too) and I made the rounds of the night spots. We not only couldn't get any action, we saw very few people we knew."

It's time for Donna's friends in hiding to come out now.

Balata Golf Ball Gets Distance

DETROIT — (AP) — The balata ball that baseball men came to despise is by some tests giving the golfer more distance this summer on his booming drives.

This was on the authority today of dapper Jimmy Demaret, Texas-born Detroit pro, whose tests have changed doubting duffers into cheerful contributors of old golf balls into the reprocessing hopper.

Demaret drove a dozen balls—three from the pro shop shelves and three reprocessed numbers. His longest drive of 255 yards was with an old pellet. The reprocessed ball averaged eight yards more in distance.

A few days later Demaret repeated his experiment and got the same eight-yard difference.

SHOOTER DIES

DAYTON —(INS)— Trapshooting fans today mourned the death of Fred C. Koch, 61. He died at his Dayton home last night shortly after returning from Cedar Point, where he was re-elected secretary of the Okoboji Indians' trapshooting organization for the 20th straight year.

Senators Slip on Twin Bills

Washington Loses Five of Its Last Six Games.

By JUDSON BAILEY
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

THE honeymoon seems to be over for the Washington Senators.

Before the start of the doubleheaders on the Fourth of July Washington still was a wonder team and was in a virtual tie with the New York Yankees for first place in the American league.

Today the Senators are in fourth place as the result of losing five of their last six games and even though they are only a single percentage point out of third place their prospects of threatening for the lead are not bright.

The Senators' plight may be traced to weaknesses that were apparent even before the club collapsed on its current western trip. They had a problem at third base that was so hopeless that Manager Ossie Bluege in desperation finally installed Veteran Outfielder Bob Johnson at the hot corner.

Since becoming an outfielder last Friday the big Indian has hit three home runs and conducted himself capably in the field, but he hasn't been able to hold the club above its challengers. The pitching has been unsatisfactory and the infield play spotty.

Moreover, the Detroit Tigers and Chicago White Sox have taken advantage of the Senators' slump to put on two of the fastest spurts of the season in the American league. The Tigers, who moved into second place yesterday by beating Washington 9-1, have won nine of their last 11 games and the Sox have won eight of 10.

The White Sox nosed out the Boston Red Sox 3-2 when Wally Moses stole home with the bases loaded and two out in the 14th inning.

New York's Yankees completed a sweep of their four-game series at St. Louis as Spud Chandler shut out the Browns 2-0 on six hits.

The only other teams to get into action yesterday were Cincinnati and Boston in the National league. They divided a doubleheader. The Reds won the first game 5-1 and lost the second 4-2.

Reds Getting Nowhere Fast

Meet Phillies Today In Double Header.

PHILADELPHIA — (AP) — Still getting nowhere at an incredible pace, the Cincinnati Reds move in here today to see if the Phillies are as inhospitable as the rest of the National league's seaboard teams.

There's a doubleheader, with Johnny Vander Meer and either Clyde Shoun or Ed Heusser pitching for the Reds and Si Johnson and either Newt Kimball or Charles Fuchs for the Phils.

Yesterday's split with the Braves in Boston gave the Reds four won, eight lost for the eastern trip so far.

After Elmer Riddle had buttoned down the Braves opener, 5 to 1, Bucky Walters ran into his usual 1943 luck and dropped the nightcap 4 to 2.

Riddle gave up the only run in the first inning as he worked for his tenth victory of the year. The Reds tied it up in the second inning on singles by Eddie Miller and Steve Mesner, some basepath interference, and a fly. They sewed the game up in the third with three unearned runs on two errors, a wild pitch, two singles, and Mesner's double.

LADIES' DAY BRINGS OUT KITCHEN FAT

NEW YORK —(INS)— Ladies day with a difference will be staged in Brooklyn on Saturday when the Dodgers meet the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Female fans can see the game by presenting a half-pound of kitchen fat plus the regular ten-cent federal tax. Officials explained it was an attempt to aid the drive for waste fats needed for conversion into glycerine for war materials.

Armed Forces Get Athletes

But the Way They Do It Perturbs Mr. Walsh.

By DAVID J. WALSH

NEW YORK — (INS) — It seems reasonably certain by this time that a dish of fine, old mulligatawny can, and very well might, start odoring up the national scene at any moment, unless something is done pretty rapidly about the established custom of having a certain number of patriots set out to win the war in a pair of baseball bloomers.

It is a tough, very realistic war and the fact is that most parents of boys in the armed forces are a little old fashioned about the thing. They think all boys in the armed forces ought to take their chances with the rest, whether they can play baseball exceptionally, indifferently or not at all; and that any elderly gaffer (with a lot of "rating" and scrambled eggs on his shoulder) can't decree otherwise without ignoring the thing that's vaguely but reverently known as the American tradition.

We were speaking of that this morning to a man whose name is known everywhere that sports are played or watched or read about, and morosely he shook his head.

"Oh, you mean proselyting," he said, just as though we weren't talking about a war in which sacrifice, pestilence and death were an unholy trinity. "It has been pretty bad."

We'd heard the story of Johnny Mize during the last few days. It seems that Mize, well known for some years as the first baseman of the St. Louis Cardinals and New York Giants, had been up for induction into the army and that somehow the word had gotten about that he might be turned down. Anyhow, our informant seems to remember that Mize ultimately was found to be physically unfit by his draft board, although he wasn't quite sure about that.

What he was sure about was that a man from each of the two major armed services was on the door step, waiting to grab off Mize—not because he was big and strong, or had a specialized knowledge of gunnery, or a nice, kind face, or could drive a car or even run an elevator.

Not any of these things entered into it, from all accounts; his importance to a country which was and is committed to the waging and winning of a war tied in only with the fact that he could hit a baseball farther than nearly anybody else. This is no per-se indictment of Johnny Mize.

Perhaps a player or two or more has been dispatched to some combat area, while nobody was noticing. Perhaps, even as this is being written, the first batch is making ready to go.

But what seems more likely, rated off the past performance record of the personnel departments, is that somebody with a cuspidor hat or egg-benedictine epaulet is arranging a transfer to another base . . . Norfolk, for instance. So that one box score's loss is another's gain, with no harm done either way.

That is, unless you don't want to count the distemper that's pretty general with parents or non-ball players sons every time they think of Joe or Willie or even Murgatroyd the Hellangone in Buno-Buno and then learn that Great Lakes won out in the seventh again.

Pompion Captures Camden Handicap

PHILADELPHIA—(INS)— Nothing daunted by a track which resembled a wading pool, the Brandywine stable's Pompion today held the $5,000-added Camden handicap—opening day feature at Garden State park.

Although a scant 6,521 attended, a total of $409,871 was wagered by the time the first eight races had been run.

* * *

The five-year-old gelded son of mud-running Pompey defeated Valdina Alpha by a neck, with Ommission running third. The winner collected $4.590 for his owner, Doland Ross, and paid $10.90 on the nose.

Randall Program Partly Completed

CLEVELAND — (INS) — North Randall harness racing fans were to have a full day today. Only five heats of yesterday's card were run because of the weather and the remaining events were added to today's schedule.

The strongly-supported Attorney won the only heat of the National stake mile finished yesterday. Driver Art Blackwell got Attorney under the wire in 2:10¾.

Also on today's card was the $3,000 Harriman cup stake for juvenile trotters.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.

NEW YORK—(AP)—By way of giving ball players credit for everything, the International league plans to publish a separate set of statistics this season covering performances during innings wiped out of the regular record by rain, curfews or other acts of providence or the dimout. . . . Pointing out that the rules once gave credit only for the number of bases to bring in the winning run when a player broke up a game with a homer, Figger Filbert Ernie Lanigan asks why not give them credit for these odd fragments of innings, too?

TODAY'S GUEST STAR.

Al Buck, New York Post: "Smart baseball executives wonder, in their idle moments, if Dizzy Dean broadcasting from Sportsmans Park has not become a bigger attraction than the Browns. There is no doubt that when Diz first started he interested women in the game and brought them to the ball park. Now people may find Dean's mouthy reports more interesting than the Browns themselves."

SOUND PLATFORM

Ben Kilgore, candidate for nomination as governor of Kentucky, ought to win a lot of votes on his "plank" boosting foxhunting . . . "In view of the increased importance of scouting in modern Pacific warfare," says Kilgore, "the success which our troops have had may be attributed largely to superior scouting. There is no better school for scouting than foxhunting, and a large percentage of our Kentucky boys are past-masters in the hunting field, and they constitute a large percentage of the troops now in that area." . . Wonder what the coon hunters will have to say about that?

UNANSWERED QUESTION

The Dodgers have scheduled a "waste fat day" (and no cracks about the fat waists some of them are sporting) for Saturday, but what'll they do if the customers insist on delivering the waste, can and all, in the general direction of any players who may displease them?

Saints Handed Many Beatings

(By Associated Press)

The St. Paul Saints own the dubious distinction of being the mostly badly-beaten team in the American association this season.

On May 2 they took a 24 to 3 lambasting from Milwaukee and on May 8 they fell before the Brewers again, 20 to 0. Last night the Saints absorbed an 18 to 1 pounding from the Indianapolis Indians. Indianapolis also defeated St. Paul in the second contest, 6 to 4, for a sweep of the twin bill, and crept back within a game of the idle leading Milwaukee club.

* * *

The seventh place Louisville Colonels whipped out a pair of one-run decisions over the ambitious, fourth-place Minneapolis Millers, 5 to 4 and 1 to 0.

Leemans Rejected For Army Service

SILVER SPRINGS, Md.—(U.P.)—Tuffy Leemans, backfield star of the New York Giants professional football team, has been rejected by his Baltimore draft board because of defective hearing, it was revealed today, and the injury may force him out of football.

"They told me to go back home," he said, "so I assume I have been rejected. I guess it was because of my hearing and possibly my eyesight."

* * *

A brain concussion, suffered last October in a game against the Chicago Bears, injured his hearing, Tuffy said, and as a result he has decided not to play again. He expects to confer with Tim Mara, Giants owner, on a proposal to become backfield coach.

Four-Team Junior Baseball League Lifts Lid Tonight

The Yankees and Dodgers will fight it out in Mansfield this summer—along with two other teams in the Junior baseball league.

Al Fendrick, recreation director of the city parks' summer playground program, and John Fike, Y. M. C. A. physical director, have announced the organization of a four team baseball league, for boys up to 16 years, with play scheduled to start today.

The four teams will play under the names of big league teams, although two teams haven't yet picked names.

In tonight's game, the Yankees, managed by Tom Daum, composed of players from the southwest district, will tangle with a team from the south end, as yet nameless. The south enders are managed by Sam Kuhn. The game will get underway at 6:30 p. m. at Liberty park, where all games will be played.

Play will resume Tuesday, July 13, with the Dodgers facing a north end team managed by Dick Wendland.

Fike, who will supervise the league, said each team will play six games. Play will end August 17.

* * *

At the conclusion of the regular schedule, which remains to be completed, an all star game will be staged between the champions and a picked all star team from the other teams.

The parks association will furnish baseballs, bats and catcher's equipment.

Junior Parks Games Played

Industrial League Program Postponed.

Junior Parks league softballers apparently have an "in" with the weatherman. Playing in the morning, they miss the regular evening precipitation which yesterday caused postponement of Industrial league tilts. The postponed games will be played off as soon as the teams can get together.

In the Junior loop Prospect barely edged Empire Steel 8-6 after scoring five runs in the first inning, while Maple Lake scored in all but two frames to trounce North Lake 13-4.

Madden held Empire to seven hits, and Landon let North down with six safe blows.

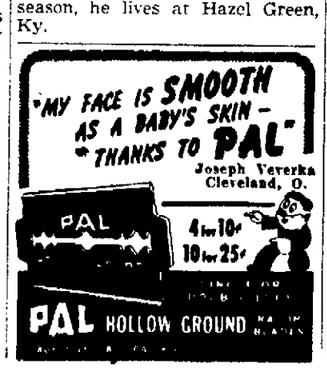
CLEVELAND — (INS) — Pete Center, the Cleveland Indians' 27-year-old relief hurler, has been classified 1-A in selective service, he revealed today. In the off-season, he lives at Hazel Green, Ky.



Lefty Smith Suspended By Chicago White Sox

Dykes Smells Pennant, Cracks Down on Dawdling Athletes.

By TOMMY DEVINE

CHICAGO—(UP)—Jimmie Dykes, the major league's easiest going manager, "got tough" today as the pennant fever hit his Chicago White Sox.

For one of the few times in his 10-year tenure as the White Sox pilot, Dykes cracked down yesterday and suspended a player. The athlete to feel the sting of the managerial whip was Edgar Smith, portly left-handed pitcher.

Smith was given an indefinite suspension for "being out of condition."

Smith was recognized as the major league's "tough luck pitcher" last season when he dropped 20 games, while winning only seven. Most of his defeats were by narrow margins.

This season Smith has won four games and lost six. He was pounded out of the box after three and a third innings of his last start against Boston after giving up eight hits and five runs.

The suspension of Smith, however, was believed to date back to the White Sox's last eastern road trip. The 29-year-old pitcher was given permission while the club was in New York, to go to Columbus, N. J., to confer with his draft board.

Instead of rejoining the club the following day, Smith was absent for five days without advising Dykes of his whereabouts or the reason for his prolonged absence. The Sox pilot made no effort to conceal his displeasure, although he took no action at the time.

During the decade Dykes has managed the White Sox he's been called upon to handle some outstanding "problem children" such as Pitchers Johnny Whitehead and Vallie Eaves. But seldom has he had to resort to suspensions to bring an athlete into line.

Smith took the suspension notification bitterly and termed Dykes' penalty "too harsh."

The Dykes' "crack down" coincided with the arrival of the pace-setting New York Yankees for a five-game series that has a crucial bearing on the tight American league flag chase.

Boxing Hits Doldrums

Even Managers Fail To Haunt Jacobs Beach.

By OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YORK —(U.P.)— The hall was dark, deserted by the fighters and managers who usually line its walls, and the silence was broken only by a song writer's piano in one of the adjoining offices.

That was the unfamiliar scene in Uncle Mike's suite on Jacobs' Beach today, proving that although boxing may not be dead, it's stretched on the canvas for a nine count.

The empty hall was only a prelude. For the full import of boxing's inactivity strikes home like a Joe Louis uppercut when you step into the anteroom. Benches along the wall are empty of the shifting assortment of smoking, talking and gesticulating citizens of Lammer's Lane who normally haunt Mr. Boxing's doorstep.

Uncle Mike's room, usually crowded with managers haggling over their end of the purse, is empty. The boss is on his Rumson, N. J., estate, playing the gentleman. As for the managers, well—there aren't any purses.

Rubbing a shining forehead, Matchmaker Nat Rogers sits disconsolately in his office. Feet cocked on his desk and hands aching to write a contract, he mumbles, "a couple of fights coming up later in the summer—but nothing definite yet."

White-haired Walter St. Denis wanders in from the publicity department, drops his feet up alongside the Rogers' brogans, and munches a sandwich. The walls are covered with fight pictures and, in the midst of post bouts, the boys seem to be looking out as if wondering in the stillness whether the fans have walked out on them.

It's all you can take and you walk out — through the empty offices, the morgue-like anteroom and hall, and on down Bashed Beak Boulevard, stretching over to the Garden a block away.

It's a lonesome walk down the concrete strand because none of the "boys" are in sight, with their stories of comers and comebacks.

The favorite farewell expression of the fight mob is: "See you on the Beach." You miss it, too, but then they aren't using it much these days. For the Beach is empty and if silence is golden then Cauliflower Canyon at present is one of the wealthiest spots in the world.

Tribe Experiments On Morning Game

CLEVELAND —(AP)— For the first time, the Cleveland Indians venture into morning baseball today, meeting the Washington Senators in the opener of a five-game series.

Manager Lou Boudreau indicated the experiment was scheduled as an accommodation for war workers, and might be repeated if attendance proves its value.

The Indians were idle yesterday, when weather postponed a series finale with the Philadelphia Athletics.

* * *

Pete Center, 27-year-old Cleveland relief hurler, said he had been reclassified by his draft board into 1-A. From Hazel Green, Ky., Center pitched last year for Baltimore of the International league and has a record of one victory and two defeats with the Indians this season.

Dodds Hopes To Beat Haegg

Likes Clay Track at Los Angeles Coliseum.

LOS ANGELES — (U.P.) — Gil Dodds, the Boston university divinity student who learned to run by mail, figures he will give Gunder Haegg, Swedish distance champion, a run for his money over the two-mile route Saturday.

The pale-faced, long-haired Swede easily outdistanced Dodds the last time they met, at Chicago.

But this time, Dodds said today, conditions are on his side.

"For instance," he remarked, "I've run on this clay track before and I like it."

Haegg, who had his second workout yesterday, said he had never before run on a clay track like that in the Coliseum on which more than a dozen world's records have been made. But he was confident he would become acclimated by Saturday, when he is expected to set a new two-mile record.

Although the Swedish fireman doubted his ability to run the two-miler in under nine minutes, members of his party believed if the ideal conditions hold through the race the champion would break his own world's record of 8:47.8 made last year in Sweden.

NAVY-NOTRE DAME GAME PLANS SET

CLEVELAND — (INS) — That twang in the air was missing but all other atmosphere conditions of the football season were in Cleveland today.

Representatives of the United States naval academy and Notre Dame university met yesterday and re-affirmed their convention that football and all sports have a valuable place in our national war-time life. They were making advance plans for the Notre Dame-Navy game in Municipal stadium Oct. 30.

Action In Atlantic.

Humphrey Bogart, Raymond Massey and Alan Hale play the top roles in Warner Brothers' picture of the men of the Merchant Marine, "Action In the North Atlantic." Bogart plays the part of a first mate aboard the Liberty ship "Sea Witch," which Massey captains. The action starts when an American tanker with a cargo of high test gasoline is torpedoed. A small portion of the crew, including Bogart and Massey, escape in a life boat.

Western Attraction.

Bill "Hopalong Cassidy" Boyd rides forth on the screen in "Hoppy Serves a Writ," western film now showing at the Madison. Boyd is cast in his usual role as the quick-witten cowboy detective. The locale of this new "Hoppy" story is the country bordering on Texas known as the Oklahoma territory before it was admitted into the Union. Here a gang of cattle rustlers and bank thieves are practicing their foul work. Other Madison attraction features Chester Lauck (Lum) and Norris Goff (Abner) in "Two Weeks to Live," which deals with experiences of the popular radio couple.

JUDGE PUFFLE— By Gene Ahern

ROBIN AND I ARE TAKING OUR VACATIONS TOGETHER AND THE JUDGE WILL NATURALLY KNIT HIMSELF IN,--- BUT DON'T STOP HIM OR TELL HIM WHERE WE'RE GOING!
HE HAS VISIONS OF A MOUNTAIN CAMP, BUT WE'RE GOING TO WORK ON A FARM MOWING HAY AND SACKING POTATOES!
WONDERFUL! HE BROUGHT UP HIS FISHING TACKLE FROM THE CELLAR TODAY, AND THEN GOT OUT HIS SWIMMING SUIT!
HE'S OUT BORROWING A YACHTING CAP, NOW-

STOCK LEADERS DISPLAY MILD RECOVERY SIGN

Electric Output For Nation Exceeds Last Year's Mark 20 Per Cent.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Stock market leaders exhibited moderate recovery tendencies in today's early transactions.

Up fractions at a fairly active opening were United Aircraft, American Airlines, Northern Pacific, Pennsylvania, Chesapeake & Ohio, U. S. Steel, American Telephone, Loew's and Union Carbide.

Boardrooms found satisfaction in the summary of the Edison Electric Institute disclosing electric output for the country as a whole in the week ended July 3 exceeded the like period a year ago by 20.1 per cent.

A constructive factor also was seen in the Dun & Bradstreet survey estimating bank clearings in 23 cities, for the week concluded Wednesday, were 18 per cent above the corresponding time in 1942.

CHICAGO—(AP)—Grains opened strong today in response to senate passage yesterday of legislation raising the ceiling on corn from $1.07 to $1.40 a bushel, Chicago basis.

Wheat started ¼ to 1 cent higher, July $1.49, September $1.49¼-⅝, and rye was ⅝ to 2⅝ higher, July $1.14-1.13⅞.

Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. When they get tired and don't work right in the daytime, many people have to get up nights. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't neglect this condition and lose valuable, restful sleep.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may also cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

FALL OF MUNDA NEAR AS YANKS MAKE LANDINGS

arm to immobilize Jap air forces and prevent retaliation from these bases.

In the Buin-Faisi area at the lower end of Bougainville, heavy bombers blasted the Kahili airdrome in a dusk attack with 45 tons of high explosive bombs.

American Dauntless dive-bombers and Avenger torpedo craft, flying with fighter support, meanwhile unloaded 28 tons of bombs on Jap anti-aircraft positions and bivouac and supply dump areas at Vila, on Kolombangara island opposite the point where the Americans landed at Rich Anchorage, New Georgia.

An undisclosed number of Jap bombers, accompanied by an escort of 56 Zero fighters, was intercepted and dispersed by an American fighter patrol when the enemy attempted to raid Yank positions on Rendova. Three Jap bombers and nine fighters were smashed out of the skies at a cost of only one Allied fighter.

The latest losses of the enemy brought to 205 the total of Jap bombers and fighter planes knocked down in the current offensive.

Kula Battle Lasts Less Than Two Hours

HEADQUARTERS OF THE UNITED STATES SOUTH PACIFIC FLEET—(ANS)—Less than two hours were required for ships of the United States South Pacific fleet to dispose of nine and possibly 11 Japanese war vessels in the battle of the Kula gulf, the first full story of the historic clash disclosed today.

Four or five of this number—all speedy destroyers—were sent to the bottom in the first five minutes of combat.

The balance were destroyed or damaged in but 15 minutes of shell-fire, and the balance of the two hours which the battle occupied was spent merely in tracking down and sending to cover the badly-battered remnants of Japan's flotilla.

It was a striking American victory and one very much in line with the precepts of Admiral William F. Halsey, jr., who presides over this South Pacific fleet command. "Bull" Halsey, as he is known to officers and men alike, has one doctrine.

It is: "Blast the hell out of them."

Report 260 Home Units Will Be Quickly Filled

the new Post Office building, Cleveland, Wadsworth said. If approved there, the requests will go to the War Production board which will issue the builder a priority certificate entitling him to obtain the materials for a new home or to remodel a one-family unit into quarters for two or more families.

The new homes, which will be limited to a top value of $6,000, must be rented to in-migrant war workers, Wadsworth said. He defined an in-migrant worker as one who has moved into the Mansfield-Shelby area since July 1, 1941, and is employed in a war industry.

Purpose of the housing project is to release building materials so that considerably more housing space can be provided in Mansfield and Shelby where employment in war industries has increased rapidly in recent months, Wadsworth said.

After a worker has occupied the new home for four months, he may make application for purchasing it from the builder. If he finances it under the FHA plan, he will be required to pay 10 per cent down and the rest in monthly installments.

Financing for new home building must be handled through Mansfield or Shelby banks or loan companies. The FHA will guarantee loans up to 90 per cent of the valuation of the new home, it was pointed out last night.

In Mansfield with Wadsworth was Harry Steffens, chief architect for FHA in the Cleveland district.

CITY PRAISED FOR AIR ALERT

Defense Workers Report To Posts In Few Minutes, City Complies With Orders.

ing the message through Sandusky and Mansfield caused Major Charles Miller, state OCD inspector from Columbus, to set up a local schedule for the practice mobilization so it could be completed before dark.

Subsequent calls from the Mansfield control center were disregarded and Major Miller's schedule was carried out with the test ending at 8 p. m., about 15 minutes after Mansfield's "all clear" signal came.

Approximately 70 per cent of the OCD personnel reported in Ashland, bringing praise from Major Miller.

While Commander Schwab in Mansfield said he had no figures showing how many wardens and auxiliary defense workers reported for duty here, the showing was highly satisfactory, he added. A full force was on duty promptly at the control center in the city building and air raid wardens appeared in every part of the city.

The city's air raid sirens again were the basis of complaint in some areas. Mayor W. J. Locke, city OCD chairman, said he did not hear the sirens at all at a home in the west side of the city and knew nothing of the alert until this morning.

Reports of faint signals came from other city areas, although residents south of Mansfield said they heard the sirens several miles outside the city.

Other surprise daylight tests are scheduled for next week in southern and western counties of the state.

A financial problem faced Mansfield's civilian defense organization today with Mayor Locke, as city chairman, reporting that only $1,121 remains in the civilian defense treasury, enough for routine expenses for only three months.

He announced that the Madison township area has officially been accepted into the Mansfield district with township trustees agreeing to the merger. Sections of the township west of Mansfield want air raid sirens and workers in the entire township have requested more equipment, he said. The federal government must approve the release of Mansfield equipment to the township before it can be allocated, it was pointed out.

If He Misses It's Gun's Fault

SUCH AN UNERRING MARKSMAN is Jack Lacy that when he misses the bull's-eye, the blame is put on the gun's sights, not on him. He is pictured above on the range of the Winchester plant in New Haven, Conn., test-firing one of the army's new M-1 carbines. As each weapon comes off the assembly line, he tests it. If he misses the bull's-eye, the sights are adjusted.

victory is with the Allies, he emphasized that it can be sustained only through the unremitting effort of the people. Cautioning against the dangers of overconfidence and easy optimism, he said "we know that our enemies still retain sinister and menacing power."

Westinghouse Tells Meeting Of New Devices

CLEVELAND, O. —(U.P.)— Engineers attending the American Institute of Electrical engineers national technical meeting in Cleveland heard of three new electrical achievements developed by the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Co.

The first was a revolving electrical "policeman" that stands guard over electric arc furnaces. It is helping to increase production of tough alloy steels for guns and tanks, members of the institute were told.

The "policeman" is a three-foot-long torpedo-shaped machine that is actually two electric generators and an electric motor, all on a single shaft. The melting of alloy steels is speeded by regulating smoothly and accurately the amount of power going into the furnace.

Another innovation described by Westinghouse engineers was a pencil-shaped fuse as tall as a man and so rapid-acting that it shuts off the flow of high voltage electricity in less than one one-hundredth of a second. It has been developed to guard war plant power systems from destructive surges of current.

bined chiefs of staff at the White House.

On leaving North Africa last Tuesday, Gen. Giraud was assured that his adughter and grandchildren were still in a French internment camp. His wife and three other daughters are believed to be still held in France. The officer-husband of the daughter held hostage in Berlin is known to be in an Axis prisoner-of-war camp.

The captive daughter and her four children were taken out of Tunis by the Axis following the Nazi total occupation of France.

The French general dismissed his personal anxiety at his conference with allied military leaders last night and told them that depending upon a crack-up of German morale for victory is dangerous optimism.

Giraud once wrote to his children from a German jail that their duty was the restoration of France and that they must have resolution and patience.

"I entrust to you the task of carrying out a sacrad duty," he wrote from a German fortress at Koeningstein from which he escaped, "the restoration of France."

War Food Unit Quits Paying Bonus To Exporters.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The war food administration announced today the discontinuance of its wheat and wheat flour export subsidy programs, asserting remaining domestic wheat stocks were needed for food and livestock feed in this country.

Under the programs, in effect since 1938, payments were made to exporters to enable them to buy wheat at domestic prices and sell wheat and flour in foreign markets in competition with lower world prices.

TAFT CHARGES FCC INFRINGES SPEECH RIGHTS

Declares Administration Has No Concern For Freedom of the Press.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — Sen. Robert A. Taft (R) Ohio, today charged that power given to the Federal Communications Commission to regulate radio stations is "the most serious infringement on the right of freedom of speech which has occurred since the bill of rights was adopted."

In a senate speech, in which he also flayed government control of the press, Taft demanded that the FCC suspend the exercise of the augmented powers recently granted it by a recent decision of the supreme court until congress has a chance to consider the whole problem of radio regulation.

"The supreme court decision goes far beyond any intent of congress which can be read into the federal communications act by the average layman having some knowledge of history," he stated.

Taft also charged that "the present administration has shown no concern for freedom of the press . . ."

"We have been told," the senator continued, "that one of the great purposes of this war is to spread freedom of expression throughout the world. This right is far older than the four freedoms. There is no more fundamental liberty. If freedom of speech is destroyed, then every freedom can be whittled away without the realization that it is disappearing. Anyone who aims at arbitrary government must first destroy freedom of speech or he will not reach his goal.

"There is no freedom if the means of communications are owned and operated by the government. Freedom of speech does not mean that only those in control of the government shall have the right to speak. The people must have the right and the means to speak to each other.

"The present administration has shown no concern for freedom of the press at home. The suit brought against the Associated Press under the Sherman act shows the attitude of the administration that the press and distribution of news shall be subjected to the same kind of rules as the manufacturer of the chain store."

Taft said that the freedom of the press has been abridged by administration policies and decrees.

"There is as yet," he added ominously, "no federal agency in control of the press, and there is as yet no federal bureau which licenses the press. But what is true of the newspapers is no longer true of the radio."

The destruction of the networks under the regulations of the FCC would be itself a serious limitation of freedom of expression throughout the United States, the senator added.

"It is the network," he went on, "which makes it possible for the whole people of the United States to listen to the Philharmonic symphony under Bruno Walter on a Sunday afternoon. It has made it possible for all our people to listen to the N. B. C. symphony under Toscanini, a delight once reserved to a few people in very large cities. It has opened the doors of the Metropolitan opera to the whole American people rather than to the few who could afford to buy a seat in New York. It has opened avenues for personal discussion and debate.

"The advertiser can only afford to underwrite such a huge enterprise—opera available to perhaps two hundred million people—because he knows that a large number of those people will hear his name and have some sense of gratitude to him for that service.

"But the regulations which have been upheld prevent any network from guaranteeing to an advertiser any of its affiliated stations. In fact they destroy the whole system of 'affiliated stations.' A majority of a five-man board has decided that the present network system is entirely wrong, and, without consulation with congress, has undertaken a compulsory restriction which may well destroy these systems."

SOVIETS CLAIM 30,000 NAZIS SLAIN IN BATTLE

Declare Germans Succeed In Making Gains Only on Southern Sector.

formulate a final conclusion concerning the outcome of the battles."

The special announcement reported the Germans had hurled approximately 450,000 men, or 30 divisions—14 tank divisions, one motorized, and 15 infantry—into the attempt to capture Kursk, one prong driving southward from the Orel region and another northward from Belgorod

(In a Berlin broadcast heard in London last night by the Associated Press. Lieut. Kurt Jeserich, transocean military commentator, described the fighting as "the battle for Kursk," and made the first German admission that the Nazis had launched an offensive. Nazi propaganda previously had held to the line that it was the Russians who opened the attack the morning of July 5

(The Germans asserted they had made gains in the Orel sector at the northern end of the line as well as at Belgorod despite resistance of "400,000 crack Soviet troops supported by very strong tank and artillery forces.")

The Russians, reporting that "the Red army has before it the largest and most powerfully armed enemy any country ever has faced," declared the Germans had brought up air reinforcements from western Europe and Yugoslavia as well as from other sectors of the eastern front

Both sides said great air battles were raging

Declares Allied Ships Leave 'Rock'

LONDON —(AP)— The Berlin radio reported today that battle units of the Mediterranean fleet, reinforced by recently arrived American cruisers and aircraft carriers, had left Gibraltar, leading "to the supposition that the American allied commander is preparing for an attack against Europe"

The broadcast which was recorded by the Associated Press, declared that the Allies, in addition to strong concentrations of warships and transports, have 44 infantry divisions and 15 to 20 tank formations poised between Morocco and Syria

These forces were said to include parachute battalions and airborne troops whose task, the broadcast declared, "would be to create at first one or more bridgeheads"

102 Nazi Industries Hit By U. S. In Year

WASHINGTON —(INS)—Indicating the pattern for a European invasion, the war department today revealed that American heavy bombers in one year blasted 102 German industrial targets, naval bases and war plants in 68 daylight precision raids

In these operations for the year ending July 4, U. S Flying Fortresses and Liberators from the Eighth air force in England dropped 11,423 tons of bombs on Nazi bases

Despite stiff enemy fighter resistance, the giant, well-armored American bombers achieved a ratio of approximately four to one in aerial combat.

In the 68 bombing missions, American aircraft were credited with 1,199 enemy planes shot down, 525 probably destroyed, and 501 damaged U. S. losses were 276 four-engine bombers, or an average of 3 91 per cent

Keep Islands Under Constant Air Attack

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA — (INS) — In a series of devastating round-the-clock raids, American and British warplanes combined to keep a variety of targets on Italian Mediterranean Islands under attack without respite during the last 24 hours, Allied headquarters announced today.

British night-flying Wellington bombers blasted three key Sardinian airfields in after-dark foravs while American Flying Fortresses, B-25 Mitchells and B-26 Marauders led a series of daylight attacks up and down the Island of Sicily.

Storm Leaves 3 Dead and 3 Missing; City Escapes Damage

Fardner, 44, farmer at Pleasant Hill near Steubenville, electrocuted during the storm, and David Meese, 8, struck by lightning at Brightwood, near New Philadelphia.

Missing in the Steubenville area were Mrs. Charles McNeil, 36 and her 14-year-old daughter and Andrew Thompson, 50. The three were believed to have perished when flood waters demolished their homes.

An estimated 27 000 war workers were idle in Akron when high waters caused the power plant shutdowns at the Goodyear Aircraft Corp., and the Firestone Tire and Rubber company. Goodyear officials said 200 000 gallons of water flooded conduit tunnels from the powerhouse to the plant buildings Work was resumed today after the stoppage in midafternoon

Partial production was resumed at Firestone last night where 7,000 workers had been sent home because of power failure

Four men, passengers in a B. F. Goodrich company plane which made a forced landing on the flooded Akron airport nosing over when it struck several inches of water on the runway, were shaken up and the plane damaged.

Evacuation of two lakeside areas in Toledo was completed by Lake Erie coast guardsmen, as waters continued to pour through three breaks in levees Rich farmlands were damaged by the floods The mobile canteen unit of the Toledo Red Cross served meals to evacuated families and families whose cooking facilities had been destroyed

State Health Director R H Markwith in Columbus reported that two 20-inch mains, carrying water from Wills Creek to the Steubenville municipal water works, were broken last night when a flood washed out a bridge

Since Steubenville engineers had flushed a 3,000,000-gallon reservoir only yesterday, residents were left with a 1,000,000-gallon supply in anothear reservoir, he said.

City authorities notified residents that their water would be shut off temporarily and cautioned them to boil water obtained from other sources. Markwith said about 36 hours would be needed to repair the break.

Meanwhile, the state health department made preperations to immunize against typhoid fever those residents of inundated areas near Steubenville

In Jefferson county a flood washed out a 25-foot bridge at Reed's Mill on U S Route 22, a strategic highway between Steubenville and Cambridge.

A Pennsylvania freight train was wrecked by a fallen tree over the track near Cross Creek, five miles west of Steubenville, blocking rail traffic.

Early weather predictions reported scattered thunderstorms in the eastern portion of the state today with little change in temperature today and tonight the Viru vicinity on June 30. The Japanese held native villages on both sides of the harbor. One company split with half going to handle lesser objectives. The rest made the assault up the slope

"The din was terrific," said Biggerstaff. "Machineguns, grenades, automatic rifles, our men swearing and yelling and the Japanese shouting banzai"

Sixty of the possibly 100 enemy troops died in Viru harbor. Their machinegun nests were wiped out or routed. TNT charges took care of some. The charge started at 8 a m and by noon, the marines were in the main village, after cutting up a dozen machinegun posts in the harbor. By 1.15 p m firing ceased.

Not many Japanese got away. That afternoon, freed from the menace of Japanese shore batteries destroyed by dive bombers and the marines, the invasion forces began landing

The main fight was over, but some mopping up remained. One Japanese feigned death as a marine walked by but the marine wasn't fooled The Japanese died all right

A patrol ran across a stray enemy soldier. He took one look and jumped screaming over a cliff.

Among the marines was Lieut. C M Andrews, 42, of Los Angeles, Cal., who joined the marines after being rejected by the army

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, THURSDAY, JULY 8, 1943.

The best war policy is to fight the enemy—not the patriots who are anxious to get something done.

Now there's talk of a milk shortage—without taking into account Mr. Wallace's happy thought about a quart a day for each person in the world.

It is now being claimed that synthetic tires will be "good for 100,000 miles," which—at 240 miles a month—will solve the tire problem for close to forty years.

McGregor Places Blame On OPA

AS SUMMED UP by J. Harry McGregor, congressman from this district, "What we need in OPA are men who will issue regulations based on common sense."

Being close to the Washington scene, Congressman McGregor is in better position to judge the situation than are observers further removed from the turmoil, and after asking the question, "Why do we have a meat shortage in the midst of plenty?", he says: "The answer is apparent—failure of the OPA in its meat control program as well as numerous other programs, caused by confusion, red tape, and at times contradictory regulations, all of which are the result of too many attempted practices of theorists, rather than the operation of practical, experienced personnel."

This is not a statement by "the newspapers," which President Roosevelt so scathingly rebukes for "stirring up trouble" between administrators of federal bureaus, and the like.

It is the statement of a member of congress, elected to represent the people in the conduct of national affairs. Its truth is so apparent, however, that it might have been made by anyone familiar with the muddled condition of food production and distribution that has come about through President Roosevelt's grim determination to man his ponderous administrative machine with like-thinkers rather than with men qualified by training and experience to handle the big jobs in which they are placed

It is Senator James J. Davis, of Pennsylvania, who has urged that experienced and well qualified Herbert Hoover be named as chief in charge of the whole program of production, rationing and marketing of food—but what good can come of such a suggestion? Herbert Hoover is quite generally recognized as the most experienced and most efficient person in the country for the post of war food administrator, but to do such a tremendous job he would have to be vested with authority which President Roosevelt withholds from all appointees.

Children of Working Mothers

STEPS being taken to provide care for young children of mothers engaged in war work are intended, of course, as an emergency measure, and not designed to relieve parents of a natural responsibility.

The problem of "what to do about the children" has probably prevented a number of women from taking war jobs, and, in some instances, employment of mothers has resulted in lack of proper care of young children.

Opening of several conveniently located nursery schools, which will be made possible by a federal grant of $19,215 for this purpose, should be helpful in meeting what has been a disturbing situation in many homes, and there should be willingness on the part of all parents who have need for this service to bear a reasonable share of the cost of operation.

Danger In Wasteful Spending

THIS NATION continues to get, and in countless cases to spend foolishly, far more money than it ever had before. And it cannot be too often repeated that this is a wasteful and dangerous situation. Lavish spending of wasters makes scarcities and pushes up prices, so that life grows harder for those with fixed incomes. And in spite of all the efforts for control, it might end in a degree of inflation that would rob tens of millions of people of painfully acquired savings.

When people will not save voluntarily, in times like these, it seems necessary to make them save in spite of themselves. Walter Lippmann says: "The country needs and must have a drastic tax bill which drains off, and a forced savings bill which impounds, the inflationary purchasing power which will otherwise ruin everyone."

The best example of such forced saving at present is the personal income tax imposed by the federal government. It can be raised to any necessary extent, for the double purpose of preventing inflation and practising, as nearly as possible, the "pay as you go" principle in war expenses.

But it is also a good thing for people with swollen incomes to put money into the bank and into good real estate, in addition to buying War Bonds.

Ships for Post-War World Trade

PRODUCTION of ships in the country has become almost incredible. They slide into the water so fast that it is impossible to keep count. Many hundreds of warships and carriers have been launched since this country entered the war, and the total will be many thousands before the war is over.

What then? Will all that good shipping be chained up in harbors, to rot from disuse and neglect, as was done after the last war? Or will valuable vessels be used effectively for purposes of peace?

There will be great shortages of all kinds of things, in all countries, when this war ends. A sensible thing will be to use available shipping for the widest possible distribution of goods and materials, so as to build up a prosperous world in whose welfare all right-minded people could share.

Property Destruction In Italy

THE ITALIANS have taken to blowing up their docks and other harbor works, to keep the British and Americans from landing. There will be no real prevention, of course, but only a little delay.

It must be with sad hearts that the Italians thus destroy their own property. Italy is poor enough, at best, and a great deal of her hard-earned wealth has gone into those waterfronts. All will have to be rebuilt, at great cost and effort, when the time comes for a new Italian renaissance—if it does.

Latest adaptation of a popular song hit is given this twist, appropriate to a drive home on a flat tire: "Going in on a rim and no spare."

Better make a note of it—you can't remember everything.

China Enters Seventh War Year Confident of Victory Over Japan

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

GENERALISSIMO CHIANG KAI-SHEK'S declaration of faith in Allied victory over Japan—the outside limit for which he daringly sets at two years—is pleasing to read at the opening of the seventh year of the Chino-Jap conflict, especially coming as it does from one of the greatest leaders of our time.

However, this statement would be dangerously incomplete without the general's accompanying caution to his people that the "present marks the beginning of the greatest trials." The Allies have before them "the hardest stretch of the road to victory."

As matter of fact, while such encouragement is legitimate for the heavily burdened Chinese people, it's doubtful whether it is particularly beneficial for some of China's allies. It's likely to inspire over-confidence, as witness the complacence which has developed in some parts of the United States since the Allied victory in Tunisia.

We have an echo of this self-satisfaction, I believe, in WPB Chairman Donald Nelson's statement of declines in the output of ground ordnance, miscellaneous munitions and merchant vessels, which he characterizes as a "very serious matter."

Only the other day Lieut. Gen. Brehon Somervell, commanding general of the army supply forces, reported in the magazine Mill and Factory a shocking shortage of weapons and materiel for the army. He attributed this in part to over-confidence due to favorable news from the battle front.

This column has maintained that the American public could stand good news without becoming complacent. Passage of time, however, causes one to wonder whether this judgment is correct. Maybe the propaganda experts who insist that it's necessary to feed the people bad news in order to keep them in fighting mood, aren't so far wrong, abhorrent as the idea must be to most folk.

ANYWAY, as regards China we are telling nothing less than the cold truth when we point out that her main asset at this moment is the magnificent spirit of her people who for six years have endured suffering which would have broken many nations. This will to win, plus vast reaches of territory to swap with the invaders for time, has enabled them to hold out.

We must recognize that China's ability to assume major offensive operations, or even withstand enemy attacks, depends on the assistance which America and the other Allies can give her. General Chiang has comparatively few resources at his disposal, either to make war or to sustain anything like normal living conditions in the unoccupied regions.

There's no reason to doubt Chiang's view that his great country will hold out and participate with the other Allies in victory. At the same time we shall be starry-eyed indeed if we don't see that he must be banking on Allied aid to turn the trick.

The thing the United Nations have to worry about is whether they can make their help effective soon enough to save China from collapse.

Generalissimo Chiang yesterday issued an appeal to the United Nations to strike in force at Japan immediately because he feels this is the opportune moment "to reap great results" in reducing the time of final victory. He declares Nippon now "is at her weakest as her ready resources are approaching a point of exhaustion."

Gen. Ho Ying-Chin, Chinese war minister, also estimates that Japan has suffered 3,000,000 casualties and says she is facing an acute manpower shortage. He further asserts that Nippon is far weaker in sea strength, has not more than 3,000 first line warplanes and has been surpassed by the Allies in the air, and has difficult material and food problems.

All this is encouraging to the Allies, but the fact remains that we have before us a titantic job of blasting the Japs out of their hold on China and other occupied countries. Time is of vast importance.

The line is so finely drawn that anything which causes great delay in the execution of our plans might produce a disaster. Complacence here at home might easily do it.

Listen World!

Education In Safety

SCREECH OF BRAKES . . . whine of skidding tires . . . snarl of crashing steel . . . a scream, bubbling to silence in a froth of blood. Another automobile accident.

There's a picture that's branded on almost every modern brain . . . inevitable consequence of a Machine Age that has Man, its creator, guessing.

What are we to do about it? Admit we've made a Frankenstein—Confess we're licked—and prepare to depart sooner or later, in hash? Or abandon machines and go back to Old Dobbin? Those are two alternatives—neither of them particularly attractive.

But here's another, from a nineteen-year-old youngster, Velma Yarrow, of Clay Center, Kansas.

Velma, too, is considerably burnt up over auto antics and other Machine Age horrors—believes, with the rest of us, that there "oughtta be a law." But where the rest of us wring our hands and cry, "My gracious! How perfectly Fri-i-ightful!" Velma gets down to cases—offers a definite cure.

SAFETY FIRST COURSES IN SCHOOL—that's Miss Yarrow's solution for modern perils. With side remarks well worth considering. Says she—

"Any day you can see the following headlines—'Four injured in Automobile Crash' . . . 'Gasoline Explodes—Mother and Three Children Fatally Injured' . . . 'Worker Loses Arm In Factory Accident' . . . 'Youth Blinded by Machine.'

"Why are the newspapers of today filled with such headlines? Is it because this generation is more careless than preceding ones? No—I sincerely believe we are more careful and alert. We have to be, in this fast-moving machine age. Nor is it the fault of the inventors and manufacturers, who are constantly adding new safety devices to automobiles and other machines.

"THE FAULT LIES IN OUR GENERAL EDUCATION. DANGER HAS BECOME A CONSTANT AND INESCAPABLE PART OF OUR LIFE. BUT OUR EDUCATION FOR HANDLING DANGER HAS NOT KEPT PACE WITH THE REST OF OUR ADVANCEMENT.

"'Safety First' courses should start with the kindergarten and extend right through grammar, high and college years. Most boys and girls learn to operate cars or use other dangerous machines and equipment between the ages of fourteen and sixteen. Then they should learn at the same time, how to use these things safely.

"COURSES IN CAUTION SHOULD BE COMPULSORY IN EVERY CLASSROOM, GRAMMAR, HIGH SCHOOL, OR COLLEGE OTHERWISE EACH PERSON WHO OPERATES A MACHINE BECOMES A MENACE TO HIMSELF AND EVERYONE ELSE.

A GREAT idea—and one that applies to Dad and Mom as well as Junior and Sister. We are living a Machine Age, yet how many of us know how to conduct ourselves so that we may profit by it and be protected against it? A Machine Age implies more than the handling of new tools—it implies also a new handling of ourselves.

High pressure mechanics require high pressure thinking. Modern mechanical equipment in your house, office or garage won't do you much good, if you're still functioning mentally at a Horse 'n' Buggy speed. As, unfortunately, most of us are.

It isn't the factory machine, not the automobile or the gasoline bottle, which causes nine out of ten accidents. IT'S THE LAZY-BONES' MIND.

Think it over. How many miles per hour do you and your friends make—ABOVE THE COLLAR? There's your REAL Danger Zone.

Big Profits In Making Airplanes Adds to U.S. Capital-Labor Rift

WASHINGTON—Worst long range problem worrying administration leaders during the hectic closing days of congress was the ever widening gap between factions of the American people similar to that which preceded the Fall of France.

In France, a labor government had its own way to such extent under Blum that public reaction veered in the opposite direction, labor was in the public dog-house and reactionaries were in the saddle. Labor became bitter, sulky, uncooperative, while big French business had its sway.

Neither side would cooperate. Both hated each other. So France fell.

Today, in the U.S.A., public reaction against labor hit the full swing of the pendulum with the anti-strike bill. Labor had enjoyed the largest degree of power under Roosevelt ever achieved by American unions in their entire history. Now, as in France, labor is in the national dog-house.

Whether it remains there is the big question; also whether labor becomes sulky, bitter and uncooperative as in France. Upon the ability of both sides to cooperate, to see the other side's viewpoint is going to depend a great many things in this country—not only winning the war, but the kind of government we have after the war is over.

War Profits.

THE War Production Board has just made a study of certain war industries, the result of which is not going to help labor's mood. The WPB shows the profits of airplane companies from war contracts, which even after deducting taxes, are enormous. These profit figures are based upon invested capital.

For instance, North American Aviation, which suffered a strike and seizure of its California operation by the government, made 51.06 per cent profit in 1941 after paying taxes. Before paying taxes its profits were 134.53 per cent. North American's 1940 profits were even higher—57.33 per cent after deducting taxes.

Consolidated Aircraft, another big company, made the gigantic profit of 94 per cent in 1941 after paying taxes. Boeing, which turns out bombers, made 25 per cent; Curtiss-Wright 41.9 per cent; and Douglas 51 per cent. All these were after paying taxes. Consolidated, incidentally, made 309 per cent before paying taxes.

Bell Aircraft, which is building a big bomber plant in Georgia, made 36 per cent in 1941; Sperry Gyroscope 37.9 per cent; Ryan Aeronautical 38 per cent. Wright Aeronautics, which the Truman committee charged with manufacturing faulty engines despite government inspectors' opposition, made the juicy profit of 45.7 per cent in 1941 and 250 per cent before deducting taxes.

These lush war profits, taken together with congressional adoption of the Ruml tax, plus congressional veto of the $25,000 salary ceiling, plus current talk of a sales tax, is not going to help lessen the rift between capital and labor, already increased by the coal mine, anti-strike bill controversies.

Note: Labor leaders didn't announce it, but on the day after congress overrode the anti-strike veto, they launched plans to have every worker in the country register so as to be able to vote in 1944.

Ambassador Davies.

AMBASSADOR JOE DAVIES, whose film "Mission to Moscow," has done a great service for better understanding of Russia, has been subject to a lot of twitting from his socialite pals.

The other day a group of them attended a private showing of the Davies film. At the start of the picture, Joe Davies himself, looking very dignified, comes on the screen and explains why he sponsored the film, namely because of the importance of understanding Russia. Among other things, he says:

"I am not a Communist. I am a Capitalist."

"When I knew him," whispered Sir Willmott Lewis of the London Times loudly, "he was a lobbyist."

Gas-less Auto Race.

AN AUTOMOBILE race was staged in Brazil recently which should interest gas-less Americans. Thirty-two cars took part, and not one of them used a drop of gasoline.

Each car was equipped with a charcoal burning apparatus known as "gasogene," producing a charcoal gas whose combustion takes the place of the combustion of gasoline in the ordinary automobile engine.

These devices have been so successful in Brazil that they are being produced at the rate of 40 a day, selling for about $200 each. Some of the units are capable of generating a thousand horsepower, and are used even on the inter-city buses between Santos and Sao Paulo.

Brazil has practically no petroleum resources of her own.

Little Business.

SOMETIME ago, Guy Holcomb, energetic crusader for the little businessman, got an appointment with Secretary of Commerce Jesse Jones to urge that he set up in the commerce department a bureau to aid little business.

Secretary Jones listened attentively while Holcomb outlined his plan, finally interrupted:

"What are the problems of small business?"

Holcomb looked astonished.

Jones continued: "All small business ever wanted of me was to borrow government money."

"No, they don't want to borrow money," disputed Holcomb, "they want a square deal. They are not chiselers."

"Well, you get me up a brief on the problems of small business," replied Jones, "and I'll study it."

"Mr. Jones," Holcomb answered, "I appreciate your listening to me, but if you don't know by this time as secretary of commerce what the problems of small business are, then I haven't got time to educate you. Thanks for the interview and the privilege of meeting you after all these years."

Note: Eventually Jesse did establish a feeble small business division in the commerce department. Meanwhile, despite protests from other government bureaus, he has given office space, rent free, to big business concerns to plan their problems after the war.

Dave Boone Says:

IN CONSIDERING the Declaration of Independence this year the thing to do is to remember that you are entitled to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness unless James Caesar Petrillo and others of his autocratic type think otherwise. Petrillo, head of the musicians' union, has now announced that he won't permit any more recordings of music for radio transmission, none at all.

* * *

James Caesar doesn't hesitate or reason or show the caution and consideration that an elected servant of the people would have to show in such matters. He has no authority over the public, but no president, king or czar could issue orders more flatly.

* * *

He makes John Lewis seem fairly mild. John performs on a bass drum but Jimmy throws everything at you from the cello and flute to the bull fiddle and grand piano.

* * *

J. Caesar thinks progress should never affect a man who plays a musical instrument no matter how he plays it. The coming of the auto could throw harness makers, blacksmiths and teamsters out of work. The invention of the electric light could ruin the gas lamp lighter and the wax candle maker, but radio mustn't bother a single saxophonist or snare drummer.

* * *

The Declaration of Independence tells us all men are created equal. But the boys like Petrillo defy the rest of us to prove it.

No Need to Worry About the WACs; They're Doing Fine Work In North Africa.

NORTH AFRICA—(By Wireless)—The fond mothers of WACs in Africa may have visions of their poor little girls all alone over here in this big bad world fighting off olive-skinned rogues with one hand and lions and snakes with the other.

They needn't worry. The girls are perfectly safe. The city they are in is as modern, though in a European way, as cities back home. Thousands of French women and girls, dressed just as Americans dress, crowd the streets at all hours. There are American army nurses, and British nurses, WAAFs, WRENs and ATS girls, and five different kinds of French service girls in uniform.

There is the thrill of being in the midst of vital things here, without the drawbacks of either physical danger or spiritual peril.

OUR WACs do about a dozen kinds of work here. It takes a couple of dozen to run their own two barracks, their three messes and their headquarters. They are proud of being a self-contained unit, requiring no help from anybody. They even repair their own stoves.

Five of the others are car drivers, and the rest work in offices. They serve as secretaries, typists, draughtsmen, phone operators, and mail sorters. They get up and "go to the office" just as though they were on civilian jobs back home.

There are six WACs in General Eisenhower's office. There are 30 in the adjutant general's office, 11 in the judge advocate's office, 14 in civil affairs. The signal corps has 50 running switchboards and teletypes and deciphering code messages. And since there are no WAVEs over here yet, two WACs are working for the navy!

When a WAC takes over a telephone switchboard from a soldier, efficiency goes up about a thousand per cent. If there is one single thing the male species does with complete confusion and incompetence it's running a switchboard.

The mail section is another example of women doing a job better than soldiers can. There are 66 WACs in the delayed-mail section—mail that for some reason or other is not immediately deliverable, and the addresses have to be tracked down. This is confining and tedious work. You have to sit all day, and you become practically an international business machine. Each of these girls is now doing the work of four G. I. soldiers whom they replaced, the big bumble-fingers.

There are a number of WACs in the planning section, and these are cognizant of the most vitally secret information. They are good tongue-holders. Their officers tell me that soldiers who have dates with WACs are always confessing to them where they are going next, but that the girls are as mum as though they were talking to German spies.

Of the five girls who are drivers, two drive trucks. In England it's a common sight to see a whole big military convoy driven by women, but we haven't reached that stage yet. The two WAC truck drivers work mostly in the city, but they have made cross-country trips of several hundred miles hauling supplies.

Both of these drivers are former schoolteachers, and one holds a master's degree. She is Idel Anderson, San Francisco. She taugh history in Reno. She loves it over here. In fact she has definitely decided to come back after the war and stay a while. She wants to learn French perfectly, for one thing, and to have more time to brush up on history at the scene.

The other schoolmarm who wheels a big truck is Dorothy Gould, of Dos Palos, Cal. Both of these girls wear army coveralls, but both of them are feminine and there is nothing truck-driverish about them except their ability.

THE FIVE officers of the WAC company live in barracks with the girls but have separate rooms. The company commander is Capt. Frances Marquis, of New York, who is 46 and married and did promotion publicity work back home.

Second in command is Capt. Burke Nicholson, of St. Louis. She is married, and has her own law practice in St. Louis. In fact, she was president of the Women's Bar association there, being the youngest one extant.

Lieut. Elizabeth Joosten commands that part of the company which lives in a convent. She is a charming woman with a sharp wit, she is married, and she gives the Stratford hotel in Houston, Tex., as her home. She was born and educated in Holland.

Lieut. Sylvia Marsili, who says her name rhymes with parsley, is 36, comes from Pittsburgh, has a B. S. degree in home economics, and taught junior high school at Pittsburgh.

The fifth officer is a doctor. She is Lieut. Margaret M. Janeway, who had her own practice in New York. She's about to be taken into the army. Lieutenant Janeway is 47, and married. She says the WAC's health is good and that the average WAC in Africa, although she has gained about 15 pounds, has actually got slimmer around the waist. Which shows what hard work and regular hours and trying to learn French can do for a woman.

CHAPTER XIX

The fog ahead of them turned gray, then white, then pink. Suddenly, lo, they were out in the clear! Before them, black against the rising sun, were ships of the scattered convoy. Even as they looked, more and more of them came plowing out of the fog.

"Well, they're pretty badly scrambled but not as badly as I expected," said Elder.

"There's the Cortez, way over there to port. She's stopped to let us form up on her.

"Yes, and there's the cruiser. M'm, now, let's see — can you make out any of these fellows' numbers? That's the old Thalassa, up ahead; I can recognize her by that . . ."

"God!"

Where the Thalassa had been, there reared a towering pillar of fire and smoke. A gust, a gale, a tornado swept across the water — a mighty, invisible force which buffeted the Merchant Mariner, rocked her, wrenched her, and caused her to quiver and tremble. Then came a roar such as mortal ear had never heard before. For miles around, white splashes leaped and danced on the surface of the sea as fragments of men and metal came raining down upon it. For minutes, it seemed, this fearful shower continued. Elder sickened as he watched it. The smoke cloud rolled itself into a big, greasy ball and drifted lazily down the wind. Of the Thalassa, there remained no slightest trace. Nothing. Nothing.

Elder groaned. "Poor Nick Papodoulos!"

Off to starboard, a ship's whistle hooted frenziedly; then came two muffled explosions and she heeled over her side.

"Periscope! Dead astern!" bawled one of the Merchant Mariner's lookouts.

"Periscope! Port beam!" cried another.

Simultaneously, the Merchant Mariner's four inch gun let go with an ear-splitting WHAM! and the .50 caliber behind the bridge snarled as though ripping the air asunder. Elder could see the bullets lashing the water to foam. In the midst of the foam there jutted something which looked like a drain pipe. Suddenly, the drain pipe snapped off short and toppled into the water.

From somewhere ahead came the sound of heavy firing and the muffled booming of depth bombs. A plane shot away from the cruiser's catapult, and was followed by another. Elder saw a destroyer plunging toward him; suddenly, she seemed to rear up backwards, her bow enveloped in smoke. When the smoke cleared, her bow was under water and her stern thrust high in the air, the propellors lashing futilely. For a moment she hung poised and then nose-dived out of sight.

"Hell!" cried Rossi. "There's subs all around! It's lousy with 'em!"

"Yunh! We've been jumped by a whole bloody pack! We've got to get out of here!" He snatched up the engine room telephone. "Give 'er everything she's got! Everything! Understand me, Mister?"

A white torpedo trail came streaking from dead ahead, directly toward the Merchant Mariner's bow. Elder shouldered the helmsman away from the wheel and grasped it himself. Obviously, if he kept the ship on her course, the torpedo would meet her squarely. If he swung her out of line, the impact would be somewhere on the side. It was a supreme test of seamanship—a test involving split-second judgment and unexampled skill. Elder hunched his shoulders, gripped the wheel tighter and—grinned!

Just as a direct, head-on hit appeared inevitable, he eased her a trifle to the right, then eased her a trifle more. As the torpedo plunged into the first bow wave, he jammed on full left rudder. The tin fish was shoved sideways by the surging, tumbling bow wave like a beetle in a gutter torrent. It streaked harmlesly along the Merchant Mariner's entire length, a scant four feet away.

A breathless cheer went up, followed by cries of "Nice work, Captain!" "At-a-boy, sir!" and "That's dodging 'em, Skipper!"

"M'mph!" Elder grunted, more than a little pleased with himself. "Well, it was a damned neat job, at that!"

He swung the ship due north and relinquished the wheel to the quartermaster. "Hold her as she bears," he ordered.

The Cortez, her four guns blazing, was signalling "Disperse . . . Disperse . . . Disperse!" The command was superfluous, for the ships of the convoy were scattering in all directions. But even when the Merchant Mariner was out of sight of the last of them, Elder could still hear the dull rumble, the troubled mutter of gunfire below the southern horizon.

All through the rest of that tragic day, the Merchant Mariner plied her northward course. Early in the evening, Sparks emerged from the radio room and moved weakly toward a ventilator, against which he leaned for support. His face was ashen, his lips twitched and his nails were bitten to the quick. Evidently, the night of fog and the morning of battle had shaken him badly.

For a while he stood there, gazing dully out upon the sunset-reddened sea. Then, suddenly, he stiffened. "Say!" he gasped. "We're heading north; What are we heading north for?"

Impulsively, blindly, he made for the bridge ladder and ascended it.

"Mr. Rossi!" he blurted. "Is the Captain here?"

"He's there in the chart room. What's the matter, Sparks—got a message for him?"

"No, I . . . Oh, Captain! Captain!" As Elder came out of the door, Sparks ran forward and seized him by the hand. "We're —we're heading north! North, sir! North!"

"Why, sure, we're heading north! Say . . . .what the hell's the matter with you, Sparks! Let go of my hand!"

"But—but we've lost the convoy! We've lost the escort! If we try to make it alone, it'll—it'll be suicide! Aren't you going to put back, Captain?"

"Put back? Of course I'm not going to put back! But one more yip out of you, Mister, and I'll put you in irons!"

"But Captain — oh, please, please! For the love of God, Captain!" Sparks voice cracked shrilly. "Put back while there's time! Put back while . . ."

SOCK!

Sparks went down like an empty sack and lay there, moaning thinly.

"Okay, Joe!" Elder nodded his approval. "For once in your life, you uncorked it on the right guy. Some day, I bet this lad will thank you for it! Yes, indeed! It'll make a man of him, or I miss my guess!"

"Um!" said Mr. Rossi, "Um! I wish these damn knuckles could get a chance to heal up!"

"Hey, Johnny!" Elder called to Parker, "Help Sparks down to his room and put him to bed, will you? Tell the assistant operator to stay on the job till he's feeling better."

"Bed?" said Rossi, endeavoring unsuccessfully to stifle a yawn. "Bed? Where have I heard that word before?"

"Don't ask me," said Elder, yawning wide and unashamed.

Auxiliary Has Reception of New Members

Auxiliary No. 100, Sons of Union Veterans, welcomed three new members into the organization at the regular meeting held Wednesday night in Memorial hall.

The new members are Miss Dorothy Sherer, Miss Dorothy Bierly and Mrs. Mary Leitch. The business meeting was conducted by Mrs. Alva Miller, vice president.

A report was given on the state convention held last week. Mrs. Frank Brannon, a member of the auxiliary, was elected vice president of the state organization.

During the social hour which followed the business session, luncheon was served in honor of the new members. Mrs. Paul Sherer was in charge of the arrangements. The table from which the lunch was served buffet style was centered with flowers and candles.

The auxiliary will meet on July 21 at the Memorial hall.

ALTHOUGH fall may seem a long time away many organizations are already making plans for the "club" season. A cabinet meeting of the Pilgrim Guild of the First Congregational church was held yesterday at the home of Mrs. Robert Dirlam, 492 Forest Hill road, to appoint the year's chairmen and plan the general program for the coming season.

Vacations are always a reason for renewing old acquaintances, especially if one is back at home. Such is the case this week for Ruth and Wayne Paulson of Portsmouth, former Mansfielders. They are visiting at the home of Mrs. Paulson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. F. Garver, Ohio State Reformatory. With them are their two children. The couple, well known here, is being entertained by many of their friends.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

"The Authority on Authorities"

SIZE OF SPOTS VITAL

Watching the size of the little spot-cards can decide the fate of plenty of hands. Even the difference between a 2 and a 3 or a 3 and a 4 tells the careful observer what to do to make or defeat particular contracts. On the defense, if you can count on your partner to use orthodox methods in all fairly normal situations, you can read plenty of his holdings because of the denomination of a little card he uses on some apparently unimportant occasion, and consequently make winning decision.

	♠ Q 10 8 6 2 ♥ 3 ♦ 10 8 5 ♣ K 8 7 2
♠ K 9 ♥ 7 4 ♦ A K ♣ Q J 10 6 5 4 3	N W E S	♠ A 7 5 ♥ K Q 9 8 5 ♦ 9 7 3 ♣ A 9
	♠ J 4 3 ♥ A J 10 6 2 ♦ Q J 6 4 2 ♣ None

(Dealer: West. East-West vulnerable.)

West	North	East	South
1 ♣	Pass	1 ♥	Pass
3 ♣	Pass	3 ♥	Pass
3 NT	Pass	Pass	4 ♦
Dbl	Pass	5 ♣

East guessed that South would have got away with a cheap sacrifice at his 4-Diamonds doubled, and did not want his side to be beaten out of the game which would complete a 700 rubber, so took out the double. He wound up glad that he did, for the contract got made, though it could have been set.

North opened the diamond 10, the A winning and the club Q going through at once to reveal the bad trump situation. West took the club A, returned to his hand with the spade K and led the club J, which North took. This left North the trump 8, so he tried to put South in by leading the heart 3, which he feared to lead at the beginning because it might have set up the suit fortuitously for the declarer, and also because with his own long trumps, he wanted to pump out some of West's by making him ruff diamonds.

South won the heart Q with the A and then—love's labor lost—returned a diamond. West took this, dropped the final trump and of course, scored the rest of the tricks to make his contract.

"I didn't know your heart 3 was a singleton," pleaded South afterward. But when West played the 7 on it, and the 4 was out of sight, it should have been crystal clear. If North had held the 4, his orthodox lead would have been the top of the doubleton. Had South returned the heart after winning the 3, the contract would have been set, of course.

Tomorrow's Problem.

	♠ 7 3 2 ♥ K Q 4 ♦ K 8 4 ♣ A 7 6 3
♠ A K 6 4 ♥ 10 9 ♦ Q J 3 ♣ Q 9 5 4	N W E S	♠ Q 8 5 ♥ J 8 7 6 5 3 2 ♦ A 7 2 ♣ None
	♠ J 10 9 ♥ A ♦ 10 9 6 5 ♣ K J 10 8 2

(Dealer. West. North-South vulnerable.)

If South leads the diamond 10 to the J. K and A, wins the heart return and then leads the diamond 5, what is East's soundest plan to try for 4-Hearts on this deal?

The Persian navy consists of two sloops, five patrol vessels, two tugs and motor patrol boats.

Pitfalls of Love

(A sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

Dicky let her demand hang in the air for a tantalizing second. Then he spoke with the saccharine urbanity which I knew was taxing her self control to the limit.

"I can tell you where they are, certainly," he said. "But it won't do you one bit of good. I am afraid. They are in another apartment on another floor, where Mrs. Graham is caring for Mrs. Bickett. Under no circumstances can you or anyone else outside their families see either of them tonight."

I heard a gasp of fury from the "wilderness woman."

Then she went into action.

"Why, you cheap, double-crossing popinjay!" she stormed. "Have you any idea what you're doing by keeping that woman away from me? I need some information from her, which I was going to get out of her tonight. If I don't get it, there'll be mighty hard sledding ahead for her, and for your wife as well, although I have a hunch, big boy, that you wouldn't be so overwhelmed with grief if something drastic did happen to that dame of yours. I've heard interesting gossip about the fascinating Dickybird Graham, and his high-brow wife who doesn't understand him."

When Dicky answered her, after a second's silence, I could have told her to look out, for his voice had the silkiness which clothes it when he is furiously angry.

"Aren't you getting a bit off your main track, my dear?" he asked.

I could not see her face, but I guessed that she had started at the banal familiarity and was weighing it. The next instant her colossal conceit took hold of her, and she evidently toyed with the idea that he was becoming interested in her.

"Well, perhaps I am," she admitted, suddenly calmer. "I've been so bedeviled tonight that I really don't know just what I am saying. But I simply must get that information I want out of that Bickett woman."

"I've told you she can't be seen," Dicky said firmly. "But if you can think of any other way—"

"There isn't any other way," she declared. "Look here, you're a sensible man—my kind of man. I'm used to your type, and I'll bet you could put over anything you wanted to, if you made up your mind."

"You flatter me, I'm afraid," Dicky said, and no woman who did not know him as I did would have doubted that he was distinctly interested in what the "wilderness woman" was saying.

"You know that namby pamby type of woman," Ruth Hayes went on, and she managed to put into her voice a belief that she and Dicky understood each other. "She probably thinks she's too sick to come over to that apartment, but I'll bet you know as well as I do, that she isn't sick at all—simply having an attack of cold feet. And your wife, who probably prides herself on being a woman's woman, is no doubt hovering over her with electric foot warmers, hot cups of tea, and so forth and so on."

There was infinite contempt in her voice, as she spoke of me, and I guessed that Dicky was holding his temper in with difficulty. Then I heard her rise, and I pushed my door open a bit wider so that I saw her bend over Dicky and lay her hand almost caressingly upon his shoulder.

"Be a sport, big boy, and give me a break," she implored. "I'm sorry I came in here with threats. But I didn't expect to find anybody like you here."

"Just what do you want me to do?" he asked, and in Mrs. Ticer's words, "butter wouldn't have melted in his mouth."

"Only to go over to wherever the Bickett woman is parked, and bring her back with you to me here," she said.

"You don't know my wife," Dicky said, shaking his head. "She never would let me bring Katharine back with me. She—she doesn't like you very well, I'm afraid."

I choked back a laugh as I heard the deprecating note in his voice which implied that my judgment was harsh and mistaken.

"She'd like me less if she saw us now," Ruth Hayes said, with a chuckling laugh, and then I saw her run her hand through Dicky's hair with a caressing gesture.

"Wouldn't you stand up to your wife for—once?" she asked, with a pause that I knew meant him to substitute the words "for me?"

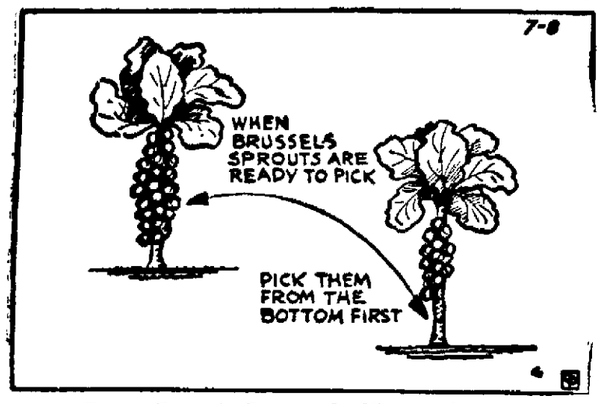
Today's VICTORY GARDEN-GRAPH



Better Brussels Sprouts In Victory Garden.

By DEAN HALLIDAY

Released by Central Press Ass'n.

A large part of the growth of Brussels Sprouts is made during the early, cool fall days. If you are growing them in your Victory garden for the first time, do not be dismayed if the first pickings are lacking in flavor. You will very likely find that the first pickings are not as tasty as you may expect, but as the latter sprouts come along you will find they have more flavor.

As illustrated in the accompanying Garden-Graph, Brussells Sprouts are gathered as they mature from the bottom of the stalk up. The "buds" are of edible size when they are from one to two inches in diameter. The plants are very hardy and the flavor of the sprouts is improved after a frost.

Well firmed soil encourages the formation of sound sprouts, while loose soil and loosely placed plants have just the opposite result. As the lower leaves of Brussells Sprouts plants turn yellow in the autumn they should be picked off and added to the compost pile. In fact, the lower leaves can be removed, whether yellow or not, to facilitate the picking of the sprouts.

As the sprouts are removed as the season progresses, keep picking off the leaves to force all the strength of the plants into the newly forming sprouts, which will continue to develop higher up on the main stalk.

HOROSCOPE

For Friday, July 9.

Powerful astral configurations, predominant on this day, point up the unusual, original, exciting and dramatic. New projects or extraordinary propositions should advance with sudden force and with the aid of influential personages, impressed by novelty and originality. Mechanical skill is emphasized, although travel, change, art, law and letters command attention. It would be well to be cautious with all writings and contracts.

Those whose birthday it is are confronted by a year of surprising and thrilling opportunity for trying out their ingenuity, skill and practical ability in putting over bold, original and possibly unique creations, ideas or suggestions that attract promotional assistance from those in influential places. This may relate to inventions, scientific or mechanical in connection with the air or other engines. Change, travel, and new contracts may be involved, with legal aspects, to all of which be alert to misunderstandings or treachery. Adventure and romance may have thrilling denouements.

A child born on this day may have unusual talents and skills, with original, scientific and inventive genius, either in practical creative form or in the realm of ideas—dramatic, literary or unique. It should have a romantic and adventurous career with fame and fortune.

SALIDA Colo — (INS) — Every dog has his day, but it looks like the strays around Salida are going to have "days without end."

BOOK DESCRIBES TWO YEARS OF WAR IN RUSSIA

'Moscow Dateline,' Written By Cassidy, Placed on Public Library Shelves.

The story of Russia during two turbulent years of war is told in Henry Cassidy's MOSCOW DATELINE: 1941-1943, one of the new books in Mansfield Public Library.

Cassidy who saw the conflict from the beginning was able to get only fragments of the story to America owing to censorship. Now he has returned and in his book gives the whole picture, the surprise and chaos when the Germans marched, the forthright methods of Stalin and Cripps, the Blitz on Moscow, Willkie, Stalin's economic technique, his character and objectives.

What do we have, besides liberty, that is peculiarly American? Robert P. Tristran Coffin has brought together in his book, PRIMER FOR AMERICA, 135 poems which are his answer. The book is an informal almanac and in verses of pungent quality, deep and strong and near to the earth, Mr Coffin takes stock of most of our national institutions. In content and character these poems will have an irresistible delight for the individual American reader and a rich value for the American record.

Though for more than 4,000 years China has been governed by a succession of dynastic families, it has actually been a democracy longer than any other nation on earth, and is today the truest of the democracies. How this can be is told in the book, IS CHINA A DEMOCRACY? by Creighton Lacey. The author traces the long past, shows the urgent present, and hints the bright hopes of the future, with China and America standing together.

EXPLORING THE DANGEROUS TRADES is the autobiography of Alice Hamilton, M. D., a woman physician who attained a niche in the medical field, through her work with industrial disease. Her story begins at Hull House, and is followed by years of study all over the United States and Europe where she was a member of the League of Nations committee to fight disease.

Other non-fiction includes: TEST YOURSELF FOR A WAR JOB, Wilking and Cushman; THE PUBLIC LIBRARY - A PEOPLE'S UNIVERSITY Johnson, THIS MODERN MUSIC Howard SYMPHONY THEMES Burrows and Redmond; RECORD BOOK; SECOND SUPPLEMENT, Hall; A NEW HISTORY OF MUSIC, Prunieres; PSYCHOLOGIC CARE DURING INFANCY AND CHILDHOOD, Bakwin; AIRCRAFT MATHEMATICS, Walling and Hill; PRE-SERVICE COURSE IN SHOP PRACTICE, Kennedy; A GUIDE TO SONG BIRDS, Saunders.

DAWN'S EARLY LIGHT by Elswyth Thane is a romantic novel, the action of which is set against the background of the pomp and glitter of the last days of the British Governor's reign in Colonial Williamsburg. In it we see the "little" people of Williamsburg whom history has forgotten; aristocratic St. John Sprague, who became Washington's aide; Regina Greensleeves, the Virginia beauty, spoilt by a season in London; Julian Day, the young Tory schoolmaster who becomes an ardent patriot as he realizes the meaning of liberty and freedom; and finally, Tibby, appealing and irresistible. It is good escape reading.

THE FOUNTAINHEAD by Ayn Rand is the story of Howard Roark, architect, a man whose sole aim in life was to build, and to build not in the tradition of the past, but only in the tradition of Howard Roark. No opinion except his own either disturbed or influenced him. Perhaps that is why he was hated by the people who knew him best—hated because he needed no one, depended on no one, wanted no one. A dramatic story based on an uncompromising belief in the importance of the individual—and on the provocative idea that man's ego is the fountainhead of progress.

LAST BOAT FROM BEYROUTH by Royce Brier is a novel about soldiers, bombers, torpedoes, about death and heroism, about loyalty and intrigue, and especially about an American surgeon and girl who found each other and their common love on board the "Patrie" as it steamed out of Beyrouth and into the holocaust of war.

Other fiction includes: THE MOONLIGHT TRAVELER, Ed. by Stern; THE BRASS CHILLS, Pentecost. BY WAY OF THE SILVERTHORNS, Lutz.
